Peace Appeal of 1919 Was of Little Meaning to Statesmen in Paris, Declares F. D. R.

Text of Roosevelt Address in Page 10.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said tonight that this country did not contemplate becoming a member of the League of Nations and that as a definite policy the United States would be opposed to armed intervention in the affairs of another nation.

Speaking at the observance of the 77th birthday anniversary of Woodrow Wilson, the author of the League of Nations and the man under whose sponsorship he entered the national political arena, Mr. Roosevelt offered instead of the League his own three-point program for world peace.

His address was broadcast over a nation-wide radio hookup. While he rejected the idea of United States membership in the League, Mr. Roosevelt praised its work. "The League of Nations," he said, "encouraging as it does the extension of non-aggression pacts, of reduction of armament agreements, is a step in the world peace structure."

President Wilson's "gallant appeal" to banish future wars, Mr. Roosevelt said, "meant little to the imagination or the hearts of a large number of the so-called statesmen" gathered in Paris for the peace pact of 1919.

"I saw that with my own eyes and heard it with my own ears," Mr. Roosevelt said, referring to his work abroad as an assistant secretary of the navy during the war and post-war days.

"Political profit, personal prestige, national aggrandizement, attention to the birth of the League of Nations and handicapped it from its infancy by seeking their own profit and their own safety first."

"We are not members and we do not contemplate membership," he said. The president, in outlining his own three points for a universal peace, said he had to "every nation in the world" something to this effect:

"Let every nation agree to eliminate over a short period of years, and by progressive steps, every weapon of offense in its possession and to create no additional weapons of offense. This does not guarantee a nation against invasion unless you

Economic Group Urges Halt In 'Manipulation' of Dollar

Professor Warren Tells Philadelphia Meeting That Gold Standard May Not Survive Another Revival Effort.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Economic and government officials joined today in oratorical battle over President Roosevelt's monetary and industrial recovery programs, with 17 of the authorities of finance by resolution calling on the government to abandon "monetary experimentation" immediately.

"Efforts to depreciate the value of the United States dollar by manipulation should be stopped," said a resolution adopted by the executive committee of the economists' national committee on monetary policy. "A definite policy of return to the gold standard should be adopted immediately."

Announcement of the adoption of this policy would tend to dissipate the widespread fear of inflation and reduce the financial demoralization now retarding recovery.

Committee Personnel. On the committee are Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, of Harvard, who recently split with the administration over its policies; Dr. Edwin W. Kemmerer, of Princeton, internationally known for his work in reorganizing finances of nations; Dr. Pay B. Westfield, of Yale, and 14 others.

An announcement accompanying the resolution said the committee "will offer constructive suggestions to the administration whenever the government will entertain them" and announced the intention of presenting "a national roster of speakers."

Its action was followed by an address before the American Economic Association in which Professor George F. Warren, of Cornell, monetary adviser to President Roosevelt, asserted a return to the gold standard as America knew it is impossible.

Professor Warren declared the value of gold will continue to "fluctuate violently" and "the gold standard might be unable to survive another unsuccessful world attempt to revive it."

Asserting any gold standard plan must have a "safety valve," he said "the only possible corrections are to reduce the whole price and debt structure or reduce the gold content of the gold currencies. Apparently the golding countries must follow the latter procedure."

"To set any figure that is to hold for a generation certainly involves a considerable element of risk, both to the gold standard and to the future of the gold standard," he said.

Kemmerer on Inflation. Professor Warren was followed by Professor E. W. Kemmerer, internationally known expert on finance, who found no hope in controlled inflation and asserted the government's credit expansion policies have scared the businessmen on whom we must depend for credit expansion.

"Controlled inflation, on any large scale at least, for a long time to come is bound to fail," he said.

CONGRESS LEADERS PROMISE BREVITY IN COMING SESSION

Roosevelt Also Hears Eugene Black Report "Fine Outlook" in Banking Situation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Congressional leaders today declared themselves against recovery-tinkering efforts and promised President Roosevelt a short, business-like session devoted almost exclusively to the enactment of the necessary budget measures.

As this well-defined administration program emerged, President Roosevelt near a conclusion of his round-up of the national situation which brought a report from government fiscal aides of a "fine" banking outlook.

Winthrop Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National Bank, joined in the White House business review and said conditions were "gradually improving."

Speaker Rainey sounded a keynote of "short, harmonious and constructive" for the congressional session opening next week. He made his prediction at the White House after a talk with the president.

Important Session. "We are going to have a very important session," said the speaker, "but it will be a working one rather than dramatic. We will pass the supply bills, the tax bills, the liquor measures and adjourn early in May."

Rainey's program excluded the much discussed permanent legislation to regulate railroads and stock exchanges, along with attempts to amend the recovery program that was enacted in the special session last spring.

Senator Connally, of Texas, a democratic member of the finance committee, assured the president of support for his dollar devaluation monetary program.

Rainey said there was very strong sentiment on Capitol Hill for additional aid for the silver industry and predicted some action "if any encouragement comes from the president."

None of today's White House call would discuss the monetary program, but the president kept close contact with those involved in the money situation, and there were renewed anticipations of new monetary moves.

Talks With Black. In a brief survey of the banking situation, the president talked with Acting Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury, Governor Black of the federal reserve bank, and J. E. O'Connor, controller of the currency, and Walter Cummings, head of the bank deposit insurance corporation.

"Everything is in fine shape," said Morgenthau.

Such congressional attention was centered on the appropriations and revenue bills as Mr. Roosevelt turned to the preparation of his first budget message to congress.

Signs came from high quarters that he would seek a government collection of funds sufficient to devote about $1,000,000,000 above ordinary expenditures for the coming year, to cover drive and emergency agencies.

Rainey said the first order of legislation would be the budget bill.

TREASURY ORDERS GOLD SURRENDER THROUGHOUT U. S.

$100 Exemption Is Removed; Only Few Exceptions Made Under Drastic Ruling.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Acting Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau today ordered the immediate surrender, with a few minor exceptions, of all gold coin, gold bullion and gold certificates owned by all persons under the jurisdiction of the United States.

Under previous treasury orders persons had been allowed to hold up to $100 in gold coin or certificates. Treasury figures show there is $528,531,824 in coin and gold certificates still outside of the treasury and reserve banks. The public still holds $311,044,985 in coin and $217,486,829 in gold certificates.

The treasury, Morgenthau said, will pay the statutory price of $20.67 an ounce for gold bullion. That compares with the price of $34.06 which the government offered today for newly mined domestic gold in line with the administration's attempt to beat down the value of the dollar.

Gold coin and gold certificates will be exchanged for their face value in other forms of currency.

The order exempted vast gold stocks held by the federal reserve banks. President Roosevelt recently sent to the treasury and to Attorney General Cummings for study a bill by Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, which would authorize the government to call in gold held by the reserve banks and issue gold certificates to the banks. The bill would prevent gold coinage in the future.

The president discussed such a plan with the treasury and the attorney general. The bill, which would be introduced at the coming session of congress, he has not indicated his attitude toward such a measure.

Morgenthau ordered the gold coin, bullion and certificates surrendered to the federal reserve banks or branch banks of the system.

Few Exceptions. He listed the following exceptions to which the order does not apply: 1. Gold bullion owned by a person now holding such gold under a license heretofore granted by or under authority of the secretary of the treasury.

2. Gold coin having a recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coin (but not including quarter eagles, otherwise known as $2.50 pieces).

3. Unmelted scrap gold and gold sweepings in an amount not exceeding the aggregate $100 belonging to any one person; and gold which has been put through a process of fabrication for a specific and substantial use.

4. Gold coin, gold bullion and gold certificates owned by a federal reserve bank, Reconstruction Finance Corporation and

5. Gold bullion and foreign gold coin now situated in the Philippine Islands, American Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, Panama Canal Zone, Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands of the United States owned by a person not domiciled or doing business in the continental United States.

City and County Formulate $1,000,000 Relief Program

Preliminary Plans Outlined To Refund $588,000 Worth of City Bonds Due in 1934 To Help Care for Unemployable Families.

Threat of withdrawal of federal relief funds from Atlanta and Fulton county was believed to have been deftly obviated Thursday as Mayor James L. Key and George F. Longino, chairman of the Fulton county commission, outlined definite plans for contribution of $1,000,000 in 1934 to care for about 10,000 unemployable families who will become charges of the local government after January 1.

Submission of the definite program also was expected to aid materially in obtaining additional public works projects from federal funds for the metropolitan area, which also appeared to have been jeopardized Wednesday through failure of local governments to file a satisfactory program with the Georgia relief commission.

Plan to Refund Bonds. During a conference in the office of Mayor James L. Key Thursday, a plan to refund $588,000 worth of city bonds due next year and diversion of the entire proceeds as a portion of Atlanta's contribution to the care of the indigent unemployable was advanced, and the mayor and Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of council's finance committee, agreed to submit the refunding ordinance to council at its next regular session, slated for Tuesday afternoon. An additional $100,000 for relief is carried in the tentative city budget. This pushes the total contribution by the municipality to $688,000.

In the interim, Miss Gay B. Shepperson, executive director of the state relief association, assured the mayor that the federal government would continue to provide for families who will revert to the care of local governments until such time as council can act on the finance sheet and also on the refunding proposal.

Ronald Ransom, chairman of the Georgia commission; Frank H. Neely, president of the Atlanta Community Chest, and City Controller B. Graham West were among the others attending the conference Key called.

Emergency Tax Rejected. While the program was outlined, and another proposal to levy a special emergency tax had been rejected by Key and Gilliam, Key asked Miss Shepperson and Ransom if it would satisfy federal officials in Washington.

Both promised an answer within the next few days, but apparently the impasse between the relief commission, which also controls the Georgia CWA, was broken.

Longino promised that the county would continue its appropriation of $25,000 a month to relief for 1934, although he was prevented from attending the meeting held in Key's office, and to which he was invited. Shepperson and Ransom precluded his attendance.

Miss Shepperson and Ransom told those attending the conference in Key's office that the federal government now is spending approximately $1,200,000 a month in Fulton county.

They asserted that even with the large outlay, additional demands are being made daily.

WITHOUT POWER TO ACT FURTHER, GOVERNOR TOLD

Jurists Declare Law Already Complied With in Naming of Rosser, Etheridge, McClelland for Reappointment.

PROVISIONS OF ACT OF 1913 ARE CITED

Action May Result in Political Issue Next Year When Three Judges Seek Re-election.

Four of the five judges of the Fulton superior court Thursday informed Governor Talmadge that they felt they were without authority to submit additional nominations for the three places on the municipal court bench which are to become vacant January 1 when the present terms of Chief Judge Luther Z. Rosser, and Judges R. L. Etheridge and Ralph McClelland expire. The superior judges already have nominated Judges Rosser, Etheridge and McClelland for reappointment.

The communication of the superior judges was in answer to one they received Thursday from the governor in which he requested additional nominations.

The nominations of the three judges have been before the governor more than two months and until his communication to the superior judges Thursday it had been reliably reported that all three were to be reappointed despite a number of protests by county political leaders known to oppose the group.

Talmadge on Hunting Trip. Governor Talmadge was absent from the city Thursday having sent the letter to the superior judges before his departure on a hunting trip which will not be concluded until Saturday morning when he is expected to return to the capital. In the governor's absence it could not be learned just what would result from the new turn of the situation.

Reached over the telephone at Savannah Thursday night, Governor Talmadge had "nothing to say" regarding the matter. The governor said he would go into the entire situation when he returns to Atlanta and in the meantime would not be quoted regarding any phase of it.

Under the civil code, judges and other holders of public office in Georgia hold office until their successors are elected or appointed and qualify. It was pointed out that if the superior judges maintain their present stand the three incumbents will continue to hold office until the expiration of their successors must include their being nominated by the superior judges.

In the event the governor should refuse to formally reappoint Judges Rosser, Etheridge and McClelland they would under the law continue to hold their offices at least through 1934. It was said that may become an issue in next year's campaign for three places on the superior court as the terms of Judge John D. Humphries, Judge Virgil B. Moore and

Women Fliers Break Endurance Record

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 28.—(UP)—Two weary women fliers set a new refueling endurance flight record for women here tonight and set out to better it by at least 12 hours.

The new record was established by Mrs. Frances Marshall and Miss Helen Richey at 6:05 p. m. eastern standard time, when they had been in the air for 197 hours and 45 minutes, one hour longer than the previous mark set last year by Mrs. Harrell and Louise Thaden.

In a note to M. R. Cole, flight manager, the fliers promised to stay in the air until tomorrow morning, at least. Their plane continued circling within easy gliding distance of the municipal airport.

Key in Annual Message to Show Drop in School Book Purchases.

In addition to reviewing the precarious fiscal condition of the city for 1934 and calling on the council for cooperation in further reduction of governmental expenditures, Mayor James L. Key will review the accomplishments of the past year in his annual message to council Tuesday night, it was learned Thursday.

The mayor will cite the fact that 3.2 per cent has been licensed in Atlanta, that those people are happy over it, and that it has had a wholesome reaction in the market and in the economy.

He also will tell the city efforts have been swelled and that approximately $30,000 will be collected next year in licensing of the sale of the WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Speaker Rainey said today that the Louisiana faction which elected J. Y. Sanders Jr. to the house in the sixth district yesterday had complied with the law.

The house faces a dispute on the opening of the next week over the right of Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, who was supported by Senator Huey P. Long in a contested election, to the seat in the sixth district.

Rainey said Mrs. Kemp had the credentials and the right to the floor and if her seat is challenged he will allow two hours of debate.

In response to questions he said the governor of Louisiana had not given the required 35 days' notice in the election of Mrs. Kemp to take the place of her late husband.

However, he declined to pass judgment on this election contest pending a hearing in the house.

HUMPHREY FIGHTS COMMITTEE RAPS

Former Federal Trade Commissioner Attacks President's Action.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—William E. Humphrey today took to the United States court of claims his contention that President Roosevelt's action in ordering him removed as a member of the federal trade commission last October was "illegal and void."

In a petition filed with the court, Humphrey, a republican, demanded from the United States $1,251.39 he said was due him as his salary from October 8 to November 30.

Disclosing for the first time the full correspondence between himself and the president, Humphrey placed before the court the transcript of four letters from Mr. Roosevelt. Two of them requested his resignation, a third accepted his resignation, although Humphrey contended none had been offered, while a fourth contained only these words:

"I am in receipt of your letter of September 27. Effective as of this date (October 7) you are hereby removed from the office of commissioner of the federal trade commission."

The controversy between the president and Humphrey, which already has been picked up as a political issue by some republicans and is certain to be aired in the coming congressional session, has been simmering either beneath the surface or in the open since last July.

Captain Jack Malcolm Reinstated as Director of All Traffic Adjuncts.

Reinstatement of Captain Jack Malcolm as director of all traffic adjuncts of the Atlanta police department, and a sweeping indictment of the department generally for neglect of duty and lack of discretion in enforcement of motor vehicle laws, were the subjects of a meeting of the police committee of council.

In addition, the bureau show was renewed, and the committee voted to witness a performance with the ostensible intent of closing the house if the exhibitions and lines are regarded as "offensive or indecent."

Malcolm, in assuming his former post as director of traffic, will succeed Lieutenant Buck Weaver, who succeeded Malcolm as traffic chief, and will be given enlarged powers. In addition to directing downtown traffic details, he will have complete charge of motorcycle squads.

Weaver will be designated a station lieutenant in the new shake-up of the department, and Lieutenant M. A. Hornsby, station officer, will be assigned to the traffic department in charge of motorcycle details, but will be under Malcolm. Lieutenant L. J. Carroll, who was detailed as head of the motorcycle forces, will be switched to the rear position and F. L. Tipton will be assigned as a station officer.

All changes are effective this morning, under an order by Chief of Police.

Bullets Again Imperil Americans in Havana

HAVANA, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Bullets splattered in Havana streets again tonight, starting with a vicious fight in the shopping district between labor pickets and employees of an F. W. Woolworth Company store.

Police, answering a riot call, dispersed the crowd with clubs, firing at least 100 shots into the air. Snipers perched on roofs and house tops took advantage of the racket to begin firing on their own account in several sections of the city.

A careful check of hospitals and morgues revealed no casualties as a result of the indiscriminate firing.

Soldiers, apparently aiming at the snipers, fired from positions close to police headquarters and several bullets entered upper floor windows of the Hotel Plaza, where many American tourists are living. Nobody was struck and the damage was slight.

THREE MEALS A DAY

KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES

by Sally Saver

Assorted Cheeses Give Epicurean Tang to Tea Party Menus. Cheese, that most versatile of appetizers, is high fashion for tea parties this season. Just a platter of crackers spread with assorted cheese and a dash of relish provides the smartest of toothsome nibbles, and is economical as well as labor-saving. Camembert, Roquefort, Liederkranz, Cheddar, cream, Chateau and Swiss are epicurean dainties that are now on the bargain list at the neighboring grocery. And some of these famous cheeses have glass-packed versions of soft, creamy consistency, just begging to be spread.

Of course, each famous cheese has special affinities. Roquefort makes delicious stuffing for celery and so does Liederkranz, that only American-invented cheese with an international reputation.

Spread potato chips with Roquefort or Liederkranz or Chateau, Canada's cheese contribution, and you have a tasty appetizer by the mere turn of the knife. Cream cheese stuffing for large prunes is a new favorite on the tea party menu.

Cut ham or bologna in tiny, thin squares and spear them on a long tooth-pick alternating slices of meat with slices of pickle and Chateau or Swiss cheese.

All of the dessert cheese are delicious spread on crackers or squares of toast, or, for that matter, on sandwich bread. Strips of pimiento or green pepper or sliced olives laid on top will give a touch of holiday distinction. Camembert has a particular affinity for toasted rolls, while Liederkranz is fond of rye or pumpernickel bread.

Pork Roast Casserole.
One large onion, 1-2 green pepper, 3 tablespoons pure cider vinegar, 1-2 cup cream of tomato soup, 1-2 cup broth (pork, chicken, veal or beef), slices or cubes of left-over pork, buttered bread crumbs or rice flakes.

Chop onion and pepper finely, add vinegar and cook until vinegar evaporates. Pour in soup and broth and cook slowly for half an hour. Place slices or cubes of pork in a casserole and cover with above sauce. Sprinkle top with buttered bread crumbs or rice flakes and heat in a hot oven for about 15 minutes, until crumbs are brown and meat has become thoroughly heated through.

Mushroom and Rice Casserole.
Two cups cooked rice, 2 cups diced cooked left-over meat, 1-2 can cream of mushroom soup.

Mix rice and meat and put in buttered casserole. Pour soup over the top and bake for 30 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit). When about done, sprinkle with cheese on top with buttered crumbs or rice flakes. Let cheese melt or crumbs brown and serve hot.

Mexican Spaghetti.
One cup (or more) diced cooked ham, 1 medium size green pepper, 1 medium size onion, 1 21-ounce can spaghetti, fresh cucumber pickles.

Brown chopped ham, green pepper and onion in butter. Place in one side of frying pan, add spaghetti and allow to heat thoroughly. Place spaghetti on platter, surround with a border of pickles, with the browned meat. Add sprigs of parsley to garnish.

Two tablespoons butter or bacon fat, 2 cups diced left-over meat, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 can vegetable soup (medium size).

Brown meat in hot fat. Add flour and brown slightly. Pour in soup and stir until it thickens. Serve on toast or with hot biscuits.

9 Pct. Beer Is Found Here, Echols Asserts

Tests of beer being sold in Atlanta have revealed alcoholic contents ranging as high as 9 per cent, W. H. Echols, city inspector of weights and measures, said Thursday as he prepared to carry out enforcement of orders against the sale of beer stronger than 3.2 per cent.

Additional arrests were promised by Echols as officers prepared to try the case against Sig Samuels, wholesale dealer, at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in police court. Samuels is charged with selling 5.85 per cent beer.

Echols said that the check of beer sold here revealed that four brands were above the level of 3.2 fixed by the city tax ordinance.

Dispatches from Knoxville, Tenn., Thursday said that B. F. Hartman, beer distributor of that city, had been fined $50 on a charge of selling and distributing beer with more than 3.2 per cent alcohol. Hartman announced an appeal.

AFTER BRIDGE SNACKS

Have you noticed during recent months that party menus everywhere are much simpler? Foods that are ready before guests arrive or are of the "everyone prepare it yourself" variety—it's all a part of the very general movement toward less elaborate meals of all types. It's smart to do things simply! Hostesses everywhere welcome these new fashioned less intricate party menus that mean so little preparation and fuss at serving time. There is no feeling of effort—all of which leads to informality and general enjoyment. Here are several suggestions for after bridge bites you will enjoy for winter parties. Very unassuming—all of them—but fashionable.

Molded Vegetable Salad.
Soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in 1-4 cup cold water five minutes and dissolve in 1-2 cup boiling water. Add 3 tablespoons pure vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup diced celery, 1 cup cooked peas and 1 cup shredded cabbage, and mix thoroughly. Turn into a square pan, chill, and cut into squares. Serve in nests of lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

Veal Salad.
Place 3 pounds of veal (from the shoulder) in a cooking pan. Almost cover with water, add several stalks of celery, onion, 2 tablespoons salt, pepper and 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, and cook slowly until the meat is tender. Mix, sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste and add 1-2 teaspoon sugar. Moisten with mayonnaise dressing. Place in

REPLIES ARE SOUGHT FROM SEALS' LETTERS

Income from the sale of Christmas seals is ahead of that of 1932, according to L. E. Sharp, president of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association, and the number of people who have sent money has increased.

About 20,000 letters were sent throughout Fulton and DeKalb counties. Approximately 13,000 of the letters have been answered, either with money or the return of the seals. In line with the requirements of the National Tuberculosis Association, the local association must mail a follow-up to each person who has neither returned seals nor money. These follow ups will be delayed until after January 10.

MARGURITE ECKFORD DIES SUDDENLY HERE

Daughter of Late U. S. Consul to Jamaica Stricken While Visiting Relatives.

Miss Margurite Dunbar Eckford, daughter of the late American consul to Jamaica, and a sister of Miss Julia Oliver Eckford and Miss Mattie Estill Eckford, died unexpectedly Thursday afternoon at 776 Juniper street while visiting relatives in Atlanta. She resided in Aberdeen, Miss.

Miss Eckford, a member of a distinguished Mississippi family, came to Atlanta several days ago to visit her sisters and her aunt, Miss Julia E. Eckford, of Atlanta, and was taken ill. She died at 12:30 o'clock.

She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Q. O. Eckford, of Aberdeen. Her father was Quincy O. Eckford, a prominent attorney of Aberdeen, who served in the consular corps for several years. Her sister, Miss Julia Eckford, is teacher of music at Washington Seminary here.

The body will be taken to Aberdeen at 7:10 o'clock this morning via the Southern Railway for funeral services and interment. H. M. Patterson & Son are in charge.

WELLHOUSE NAMED CODE GROUP MEMBER

Sidney L. Wellhouse, president of the National Paper Co. of Atlanta, and also president of the National Paper Association of the United States, has been selected by that organization as one of seven members of the code authority to administer the code governing the paper distributing industry.

The code was signed by President Roosevelt on December 23 and will become effective on January 1. Members of the code authority will meet in New York on January 5. This is one of the first codes to be adopted by distributors.

Six other members were chosen for the code authority at the association's October meeting. These represent various sections of the country and are as follows: Gordon Kerwin, St. Louis; Richard S. Bull, Chicago; Arnett Leslie, Minneapolis; Harold Zellenech, San Francisco; Charles Esty, Boston; and O. F. Marquardt, New York.

POLAND, NRA SPEAKER, IS ATLANTA VISITOR

"We have got to turn away from depending on the government to bring good times, and do something ourselves," said Carter D. Poland, Aniston (Ala.) soap manufacturer and NRA speaker, Thursday on a visit to Atlanta. Poland will speak next week as follows: Wednesday, Columbus, Ga.; Thursday, Manchester, Ga.; and Friday, Dothan, Ala.

Poland expressed confidence that the next several weeks will see an inflation of a billion and a half dollars. He said that the recent holiday buying season was the most satisfactory Christmas buying the country has experienced in several years, and that many merchants exhausted their stocks, indicating that they must begin buying again.

E. A. T., RAILROADS REACH AGREEMENT ON JOINT TICKETS

L. E. Gill, vice president of Eastern Air Transport, announced Thursday that an agreement has been reached with the Louisville & Nashville and the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroads for inter-line ticketing of passengers.

Gill said it was the first agreement of the kind between a railroad operating in the southeast and a domestic air line. The arrangement applies to Florida cities served by Eastern Air Transport and cities to the north and northwest served by the two roads.

Passengers wishing to make a rail-air trip, or the reverse, will be able to make all reservations and secure tickets at one office.

A heavy demand over the past several years for the joint service of rail and air is responsible for the inter-line reservation and ticketing agreement, the airline executive declared.

"These agreements impress me as a real milestone in transportation history. They serve as an example of the new thought that every type of transportation has a definite place in the country's transportation system. By co-operation and co-operation between the different types of transportation, both the public and the carriers will be better served," Mr. Gill declared.

Home Loan Bond Interest Coupons To Be Cashed by Reserve Banks

Federal reserve banks and their branches throughout the country will cash interest coupons on Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds due Monday, according to announcement by Frank A. Holden, Georgia manager for the corporation, Thursday night in making public a telegram from John H. Fahey, chairman of the national organization.

Mr. Fahey said arrangements had been made with the federal reserve and its branches for cashing the coupons on the HOLC bonds due in 1931.

Mr. Holden said that at least $20,000 in interest will be due next Monday to bond holders in Georgia who have accepted bonds in exchange for mortgages held on properties of distressed home owners within the state.

Bonds, Mr. Holden said, are now being issued from headquarters of the Georgia office at the rate of $75,000 a day to from 25 to 30 buyers. He added that he felt certain the daily average will be increased to a daily average of 40 or 50 in a short time.

Prior to Mr. Holden's instructions received Thursday night, no arrangements for paying interest on the first batch of coupons due January 1 had been made. Banks were notified and efforts are being made to notify all bond holders they can secure cash for their coupons by either mailing or carrying the coupon to a federal reserve bank or a branch.

"I am happy to know of this new arrangement," Mr. Holden said, "for it will mean a convenient and orderly method of handling and coupon holders can secure their money with the least possible delay."

COMPLETE LIGHTING OF WHITEWAY URGED

Council Body Recommends Reinstatement of 1,400 Darkened Lamps.

Reinstatement of the 1,400 darkened lamps of Atlanta's whiteway system was recommended Thursday by the electric lights committee of the council and referred to the finance committee.

At the same time, the committee approved a 1934 contract with the Georgia Power Company calling for an expenditure of $240,000 for power and lights for the year on the basis of demands as of December 31 this year.

Only 700 of the 2,100 lamps of the whiteway system have burned since last spring, when the city was forced to cut funds for that purpose.

The new contract, according to W. W. Waits, chairman of the committee, represents a cut of about $91,000 in Atlanta's electric bill for 1934. If a charge were made for the entire system, the bill would be approximately $330,000.

Dewey L. Johnson, superintendent of electrical affairs, submitted his annual report at Thursday's session, showing that 21,970 inspections were

Blackmail Is Charged To Salary Buyers Here

Assistance against the blackmailing tactics of "outlaw" salary buyers is offered by the Atlanta Thrift Society, which has mailed 750 postal cards to employers in the city asking them to post the cards in conspicuous places. The cards warn employers that "loan sharks" unable "to collect exorbitant rates of interest and outrageous monthly renewal fees, are resorting to blackmail, threatening to telephone employers and reveal the insolvency of the unlucky victims."

E. Y. CLARKE RELEASED ON BAIL; HEARING JAN. 2

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Young Clarke, arrested here yesterday on a warrant from Jacksonville, Fla., charging them with using the mails with intent to defraud, were released today by United States Commissioner Needham C. Turney on $5,000 bond and a hearing for their removal was set for January 2.

made during the year, and that $6,985.22 was collected in inspection fees. A total of 4,517 were asked and 3,456 approved.

Entire cost of the department, representing the power bill, telephones, whiteways, traffic signals, etc., was $237,631.72.

Reviewing the Shows

"Little Women" Starts Week on Fox Screen

The loveliest novel ever penned, "Little Women," has now been made into a screen delight so charming that to miss it is tragic, while to see it is to learn how utterly the screen can hold emotions when the story it tells is told with artistry and genius.

The Louisa M. Alcott story has, luckily, come to the Fox theater in its screen version. Luckily, because it will undoubtedly strain the resources even of this, the biggest theater in Atlanta, if all who want to see the picture attend merely one performance during the week.

Katharine Hepburn, as Jo, is the outstanding character in the story, but the others of the immortal four sisters—Joan Bennett as Amy, Frances Dee as Meg and Jean Parker as Beth, are equally well cast. Spring Byington is lovely as Maureen, the mother, while Edna May Oliver is the one actress who could realistically play the part of Aunt March.

On the masculine line of the cast, Douglas Montgomery is handsome and appealing as Laurie, the rich boy next door, while Paul Lukas is utterly sympathetic as Dr. Fritz Bhaer.

George Cukor, the director, has made a picture that will be a strong entrant for the finest screen effort of the year, while Katharine Hepburn may also claim the finest individual performance by her work in this production. The very simplicity and naturalness of her acting makes her scenes poignant with appeal. It is a picture so perfectly done that it creeps into your heart with realization and you find tears giving tang to laughter as you live the life stories of the four girls on the screen, who are just as you imagined the four "Little Women" of the book should be.

Manager E. E. Whitaker, as added attractions for his New Year program, has a group of special short subjects, including a timely Pictorial Novelty, a splendid newsreel and something new for the screen called a "Reddity" of "The Last Round-Up."

And Jimmy Beers has arranged a New Year's organ program that will have every audience singing the most optimistic of the songs of the day and adding to their store of confidence that the darkest days are well behind us now.

"Dinner at Eight" Plays Grand, Opening Today

Last year Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production of "Grand Hotel," with its extravagant cast, made film history. The same company has rivaled its own precedent with "Dinner at Eight," a magnificent production presenting Marie Dressler, John and Lionel Barrymore, Jean Harlow, Billie Burke, Lee Tracy, Wallace Beery, Jean Hersholt, Phillips Holmes, Edmund Lowe, Louise Closser Hale, May Robson, Madge Evans, and Karen Morley in its cast. It was originally seen in Atlanta as a "road show" at the Erlanger.

"Dinner at Eight" comes to Atlanta Friday to Loew's Grand as a New Year gift to its patrons.

Like "Grand Hotel," this play is concerned with the individual dramas of a group of persons, all in some way affecting the lives of the others of the cast. They are brought together finally at a dinner which a fashionable New York woman is planning as the story begins.

Billie Burke plays the role of hostess, and Lionel Barrymore is seen as her husband, the host. When Barrymore asks his wife to invite Dan Packard (Wallace Beery) and his wife (Jean Harlow), a family row threatens. Dan Packard, she maintains, is vulgar and noisy, and his wife is common and cheap. But Packard is a powerful businessman, and his good will is important—it is, indeed, essential.

Packard has money, and Barrymore needs it in his business. Carlotta (Marie Dressler), a retired actress, owns stock in the company, and she has come to America from her villa on the Riviera to raise money. She and Barrymore are old friends, and she appeals to him for aid.

Thus, for various reasons, the members of the cast are assembled. There is the aging movie picture hero, played by John Barrymore, who is conducting a secret intrigue with the daughter of the host and hostess. There is the fashionable young physician, involved with the flashy wife of Dan Packard and there is the doctor's wife, loyal to the man she loves despite his continued infidelities.

All these circumstances are knit together into a beautiful and impressive production, one of the finest of the screen.

Technicalities Hold Up Ocean Phone Wedding

ELDORADO, Ark., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Unexpected difficulties arose in far-off Czechoslovakia today to cause a postponement of the trans-Atlantic telephone wedding of Benjamin Labowitz and Miss Weiss Hermina, which had been set for this morning.

With all arrangements completed for the ceremony uniting the couple—the bride at Prague and Labowitz here—some steps were necessary to make the marriage legal.

Proof that one of the parties was a citizen of the United States was required by authorities in Czechoslovakia. Labowitz is a naturalized citizen but proof of it was necessary.

It was believed the difficulties could be ironed out within ten days or two weeks to permit the telephone wedding.

'TOPAZE' SELECTED AS BEST 1933 FILM BY U. S. PRODUCER

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The committee on exceptional photoplays of the national board of review of motion pictures has selected "Topaze" as the best American film of the year.

The committee announced its decision today in releasing its list of what it considered the best domestic and foreign motion pictures of the year.

"Topaze" the committee said, is a film which in addition to its "excellence of production, and John Barrymore's remarkable characterization, exercises remarkably the true function of comedy in cutting deep into the oddities of human nature that make life what it is."

American films and foreign films usually have been considered separately by the committee and 10 of each chosen. The committee made a departure this year and added a short picture to its list "because the work of Walt Disney, particularly in his silly symphonies, is unquestionably one of the important contributions to the cinematic art of the world."

The favored films, in alphabetical order, are:

American: "Berkeley Square," "Calvacado," "Little Women," "Mama Loves Papa," "The Pied Piper" (cartoon), "She Done Him Wrong," "State Fair," "Three-Cornered Moon," "Topaze," "Zoo in Budapest."

Foreign: "Hertha's Erwachen" (Hertha's Awakening), "Ivan," "M.," "Morgenrot" (Dawn), "Niemandes-land" (Hell on Earth), "Pola de Carotte" (The Red Head), "The Private Life of Henry VIII," "Quatorze Juillet" (July 14th), "The Rome Express," "Le Sang D'un Poete" (The Blood of a Poet).

Rain and Warmer Is Forecast Today

Cloudy weather today, and probably rain, were forecast for Atlanta Thursday by the weather bureau. The temperature is expected to range between 32 and 46.

Another cold wave, however, is expected to follow the rain. The bureau reported intensified cold on the Canadian border, which is likely to extend following rain.

Thursday's temperature was 30 to 51, without rain. An expected low of 22 degrees was halted by a shift in the wind from northwest to east.

Georgia Crop Values Gain 92 Per Cent in One Year

Farmers Received $128,863,000 in 1933, Compared to $67,029,000 in 1932; Best Since 1930.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 28.—(AP)—An increase of 92 per cent in returns to farmers of Georgia received for their crops in 1933, as compared with 1932, was reported today by the Georgia crop reporting service.

The 1933 figure of $128,863,000 was the greatest for any year since 1930 when the depression was just getting under way," the report said.

Despite a decrease of 11 per cent in acreage from 1932, the total sum the farmers realized was 92 per cent above 1932 due to "recent improvement in prices and substantial increases in production over last year for the main cash crops."

The state's chief cash crop, cotton and cottonseed, was worth $59,664,000, or 46.3 per cent of the total, the report said. There was a 30 per cent increase in production up to 1930, but less acreage than in 1932.

The average yield per acre—247 pounds—was the greatest since 1914 and third highest in the history of the state, due to good growing and harvesting weather.

The report said that "thanks largely to the government acreage reduction plan, prices received (for cotton) were much above last season, so that the total value of lint and seed of $59,664,000 was 207 per cent of 1932 and 127 per cent of the 1931 valuation."

Percentage of value of various crops for 1933 was: Cotton, lint and seed, 46.3 per cent; corn 18.3; peanuts 9.2; other crops 8.4; tobacco 5.1; fruits and nuts 4.6; Irish and sweet potatoes 3.8; small grain 3.4; tame hay 2.9.

The value of all crops by years: 1933—$128,863,000; 1932—$67,029,000; 1931—$101,522,000; 1930—$179,422,000.

The total value of the principal crops in order of their importance follows:

1—Cotton (lint and seed) $59,664,000
2—Corn 23,562,000
3—Peanuts 11,858,000
4—Tobacco 6,598,000
5—Peaches 4,080,000
6—Sweet potatoes 3,800,000
7—Tame hay 3,720,000
8—Oats 3,717,000
9—Sugarcane 2,062,000
10—Cottonseed 1,286,000
11—Irish potatoes 1,286,000
12—Apples 978,000
13—Watermelons 744,000
14—Pecans 720,000
15—Wheat 649,000
16—Sorghum 522,000

Of the other main cash crops increases in production over last year are noted for the most part and greater values in all cases. Compared with very short production and values of last year, the following percentages for production and value, respectively, are shown:

Tobacco 463 per cent and 466 per cent; peanuts 115 per cent and 229 per cent; peaches 465 per cent and 307 per cent; pecans 210 per cent and 190 per cent; apples 150 per cent and 204 per cent.

Watermelons showed a 38 per cent decrease in acreage but value of the crop marketed was 49 per cent greater than in 1932.

With the exception of corn, production of most feed and food crops ran under last year, due partly to decreased acreage and in part to lower yields caused by the dry weather that was so favorable to cotton. The report said this was especially true in part of the southwestern and south central territory.

DODGE BUYS 9 BULLS TO RAISE BEEF STOCK

ALBANY, Ga., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Nine young Hereford bulls have been purchased by Dodge county for distribution among the farmers of that county. It was announced here today. The purchase was made by W. D. McCranie, of Eastman, county commissioner of Dodge. He was assisted in selecting the animals by Tap Bennett, of the department of animal husbandry, Georgia Agricultural College, Athens.

The bulls were purchased from the Lee county farm of W. B. Hutchinson, president of the Georgia Beef Cattle Raisers' Association and a member of the staff of Governor Tamm. They were selected for the purpose of improving the beef cattle herds of Dodge county. Commissioner McCranie announced, and results of the experiment will be carefully watched, he declared.

This is said to be the first instance in Georgia of a county purchasing improved beef cattle stock in this manner for distribution among farmers.

3 GEORGIA PROJECTS GIVEN $104,000 BY PWA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The Public Works Administration today allotted $104,000 in loans and grants for three projects in Georgia, which it estimated would provide employment for more than 100 men several months.

Floyd county, of which Rome is the seat, was assigned $55,000 for improvements on its courthouse. Folkston $23,000 for extension of its water system and Effingham county $26,000 for a new jail.

The Georgia allotments were among 120 national projects, amounting to $19,271,667, announced by Secretary Lakes, public works administrator.

The loan to Floyd county, through its commissioners of roads and revenues, was for repairs, alterations and improvements to the existing courthouse at Rome. It was estimated the project would employ 35 men for five months, with work starting in January.

AS WORKERS QUIT

Three Hundred in Newnan Strike in Protest on Labor Board Rulings.

NEWNAN, Ga., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The East Newnan Cotton Mills were closed here today when a group of employees struck over action on recent rulings of the state labor board.

About 300 persons were thrown out of work by the strike. R. H. Freeman, president of the Newnan Cotton Mills, which operate the East Newnan plant, said the strike apparently was "in protest" against a ruling of the board.

He said the board had found the mill not guilty of violations of the code and a group of employees that had been laid off were dropped because there was no work for them.

Labor leaders claimed the strike was caused by the fact that about 18 employees ordered restored by the board when work was available and not returned to their jobs. They said new employees had been given work since the order was issued.

The board investigated the mill was violating the code in discharging employees who joined the union. It found the mill was not guilty of any code violations, but ordered that about 18 employees be retained upon employment eligibility rolls and be given work when the "needs for labor shall dictate," the decision for instantment to be made upon their ability and seniority.

CWA APPROVES SITE OF AMERICUS AIRPORT

AMERICUS, Ga., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Approval of a proposed airport site here has been given by Philip Moore, engineer of the aeronautics division of the Georgia civil works administration. It was made known tonight.

Before the CWA funds are obtainable, it was explained, it will be necessary for the city of Americus to lease approximately 90 acres of land for five years with an option to buy at the end of that time. It was expected here that this could be arranged and that actual work on the project would begin about January 1.

BODY FOUND IN LAKE UNDER RAIL TRESTLE

MACON, Ga., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The body of a man found floating in a small lake under a railroad trestle here this morning was identified later in the day as that of Albert E. Walls, World War veteran, of a local address.

Walls disappeared on the morning of December 10 from a Macon, Dublin and Savannah freight train, and his body apparently had been in the small lake, which is under the trestle and near the Ocmulgee river, since that time.

Considerable mystery surrounds the circumstances of the man's death and city and county officers were cooperating tonight in a complete investigation of the case, under the suspicion that Walls might have been pushed from the train.

When the body was examined, it was found that the left leg was broken and there was a small laceration on the scalp.

PRANCE TO DIRECT U. S. FARM COLONY

Americus Man Chosen to Head Community Farm Project in Georgia.

By W. H. MOBLEY, Associated Press Staff Writer. J. M. Prance, for 14 years head of Georgia Southwestern College, at Americus, and a lifelong advocate and practitioner of planned, diversified farming, will be the executive head of Chancellorsville Homestead Community, Inc., in the development of a million-dollar farming project in Georgia.

Peyton Jacobs, former dean of the department of education at Mercer University, will succeed Prance at the Americus school, subject to confirmation by the board of regents of the Georgia University system.

The selections were made public late Thursday following a meeting of directors of the farm project which several counties in the lower Piedmont area of the state submitted proposals for the site of Chancellorsville.

Chancellor Philip Weltner of the University system, chief sponsor of the project, said progress was made toward a decision on where it would be carried out, but could not predict when final action will be taken.

It was learned that proposals were offered by Greene, Wilkes, Putnam, Jones and Jasper counties, and possibly others, all on the basis of lands actually under option.

The land is to be bought outright by the corporation, which is operating on a $1,000,000 grant of federal public works funds. Plans for the project call for establishment of processing plants and marketing facilities, with about 300 families to be settled on adjacent lands and their program to be built around the market so established.

A minimum of 20,000 acres, as nearly as possible in a solid block, is planned.

Prance, the general manager of the project, is a native Georgian. He was born and reared on a Cobb county farm and received his education at the University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, and Mercer. He holds B. A. and M. A. degrees from Mercer.

He has been connected with the Americus school for 13 years, since its organization, spending the first 12 years there as teacher of mathematics.

For 15 years Georgia Southwestern operated as an agricultural school, on a program largely established by Prance.

That program, he said today, was based primarily on virtual elimination of cotton, with emphasis on food and feed crops, soil improvement through use of legumes, and reclamation of swampland with carpet and Dallas grass and lespedeza.

Although it has dropped agricultural teaching since it took on junior college work, Georgia Southwestern still operates its farm, with 100 acres in cultivation and 50 in pasture, 20 acres of the pastureland being the laboratory on which Prance has carried out successfully his ideas of swamp reclamation.

The school has its herds of Jersey cattle and Duroc hogs, its flock of poultry, its feed mill and cannery plant, closely following on a smaller scale, the program planned for Chancellorsville.

Friends said Prance had been "wondering for about two years why somebody with the money didn't do what is planned at Chancellorsville."

Prance himself would say only that he expected to carry out the plans of the directors of the corporation in what he called "potentially the most valuable project ever undertaken in the state."

D. N. Harvey, J. S. Malone, J. N. Walker, G. S. Ballard, O. F. Holland, J. L. Benton, and State Senator W. H. Key, all of Monticello, made up one of the most active delegations here seeking the project for their counties.

AIRPORT AT VALDOSTA MADE CITY PROPERTY

VALDOSTA, Ga., Dec. 28.—A deal was closed today for the city of Valdosta to take over the property on which the municipal airport is located, and application has been made for government funds for the complete equipment of the property.

The airport has been in operation for a number of years and is in constant use by planes passing over the city. The two runways have been pronounced among the best of any airport in Georgia by flyers from all parts of the country.

Acquisition of the property for a permanent airport was made by the city with expectation that sufficient funds could be obtained from the federal government to completely equip the field with additional runways, hangars, ground lights and everything needed to make it a standard air field.

FARMER IN WHITFIELD IS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

DALTON, Ga., Dec. 28.—W. C. Douglas, prominent Whitfield county farmer, was shot at his home at noon today. A neighbor child was killing sparrows with a 22 caliber rifle, accidentally shot Mr. Douglas through the chest while in the act of repairing some farm implements. He was rushed to the hospital here. His condition is said to be serious.

Mill Workers Use New Leisure Winning Education in Schools

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Action of the employees of the Cartersville Mills, Inc., of Cartersville, Ga., in organizing a school for their self-improvement after working hours, retained the "same" today. She was injured in a fall from a horse here Tuesday. Her daughter said her mother was cheerful and that we have all hopes for her recovery.

General Johnson said he had received a letter telling how the Cartersville workers had voluntarily registered for the school and were educating themselves during hours which, before the NRA code, would have been spent in mill work.

The letter, which is from Sherman P. Haight, a member of the code authority for the underwear and allied products manufacturing industry, and an owner and active executive of the Cartersville mills, told General Johnson of benefits to that industry resulting from its code.

He said that many manufacturers, competing with the code, have told him the "limitation of hours of work, the establishment of a minimum wage, the standardization of sizes of our products and the elimination of child labor were proving of material advantage."

ATLANTA, GA., DEC. 29, 1933.

RELIEF FUNDS ASSURED.

In pledging a million dollars for the city and county relief fund both governments have gone the limit in assuring the federal government that they will do their part to meet the unemployment situation and to aid those who cannot work.

The city will take care of approximately two-thirds of the sum pledged, through the refunding of bonds which will come due in 1934 and the appropriation of $100,000 additional, while the county will no doubt continue its $330,000 appropriation of this year.

The provisions of the civil works program, under which the government is financing large public works in order to give employment to the idle, requires each community to take over the support of such families as are without workers who can be given jobs by the CWA.

It is necessary, therefore, if Atlanta is to receive its share of the CWA funds, that the city and county governments make arrangements for the care of many of the dependent families which have been on the federal rolls during 1933.

The prompt action of Mayor Key and Chairman Longino, of the county board, has the double effect of assuring the expenditure of large CWA grants locally and of preventing the threat of hunger or lack of shelter to many dependent families.

The prompt and definite manner in which the federal government's request for assurance that the county and the city will co-operate to furnish work and succor is creditable to both.

A NEW LOAN SHARK TRICK.

In the effort to nullify the intent, if not the letter, of the measure enacted by the last legislature seeking to eliminate the evils attendant upon salary buying by loan sharks, it is reported that some of these concerns are now resorting to what is tantamount to blackmail in order to collect usurious fees.

Under the new law, a partial assignment of wages does not pass title unless accepted by the employer, usury can be pleaded against salary assignments in cases in which efforts are made to collect illegal interest and costs, and juries can uphold such pleas.

Since the law deprived the salary buyer of his chief weapons—garnishment and judgment—against the unfortunate borrowers in his grasp, resort was made by some of the loan sharks to the subterfuge of dummy corporations created for the collection of illegal fees. Under the fire of several grand juries this effort has been generally abandoned.

Now, it is reported, some of these loan sharks are intimidating borrowers who protest the inexcusable renewal fees by threatening to inform their employers that they are hopelessly insolvent and in other ways to implant in them the fear that they will lose their jobs if they do not continue to come across with the usurious fees charged against them.

Such tactics are nothing more nor less than blackmail and as such are punishable in the courts. It is not probable that the loan sharks will go to the extent of carrying out these threats, but in any instance in which they do, the approached employer should promptly report the matter to the solicitor-general's office.

Employees receiving such threats can secure assistance in their refusal to pay illegal claims from the Atlanta Thrift Society, which did

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Christianity In Turkey.

As is well known, Kemal Pasha has been rigorously opposed to all forms of religion in Turkey, the Moslem as well as the Christian. Nobody is molested for the sake of his beliefs, and Turkey has the singular honor of always having treated the Jews with great deference, but foreign missions are discouraged and missionaries are kept away. Why is this? I asked Kemal Pasha personally and although one is not permitted to quote the chief of a state, I feel I break no rules in committing to breach of faith when I say that he declared religion had always come as a trail-blazer for foreign domination in Turkey, a road-paver, the thin edge of the wedge, were the words he used.

This is the usual objection, not only in Turkey. The same argument is advanced in the Soviet union and in China, as became evident from the dispute between Sir S. Buck and the Presbyterian board of missions not long ago. It is a terrible accusation, and the whole it seems to be well founded. I do not mean to infer that missionaries went out to these countries as paid agents of this or that imperialist power, but unconsciously no doubt many of them felt themselves called upon to champion western civilization and its chief powers.

Now in the face of people who have morally and ethically come much further than we, ourselves, this is scarcely less than an insult. What can a missionary say to the Chinese philosophers who dismissed the thought of war as unworthy of man as far back as 900 years B. C. And what justification can they invoke for all the bloodshed in western civilization which nominally at least calls itself Christian, that is to say standing in the token of the Prince of Peace, who conducted a policy of extermination absolutely? I mean, who left no loopholes, no exceptions? With whom do the missionaries usually associate in foreign countries?

I looked carefully wherever I went. They have a little circle, governors, administrators, military men, with whom they invariably fall in. If I were a native I would naturally feel that these groups in their entirety represent islands of penetration, the spiritual link itself with the world, for what? To the native it must look as if there is here no other domination. He cannot think otherwise.

Fontamara.
In the Rue de Pera is one of those little bookshops on the main street of Constantinople, I picked up a German book which had on the cover a notice which said: "This is the greatest story that has come from a fascist country." Its title was "Fontamara," the name of a poor village in the south of Italy. I bought the book because no book of any importance has come out of Italy since Mussolini came to power. The atmosphere of fascism, it is said, is not propitious to writers and poets. It kills the spirit, we are assured. Well, Fontamara is a good book, a singularly great book, but the author, Signor Silone, had to flee across the frontier into Switzerland after he had written it.

AN INTERESTING ANNIVERSARY.

In most of the large cities of the country, and many of the smaller ones, theaters bearing the name of Marcus Loew will, during the week beginning today, celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the organization which now plays so important a part in the amusement world.

Marcus Loew was in many respects a remarkable man and it is a tribute to his genius as an organizer and businessman that his great national organization should have gone on with its pace continuously forward after his death several years ago.

During the years in which he was its guiding head, the organization was steered clear of the shoals on which so many of the great amusement corporations have been wrecked, and that it has continued to do so during the past few years also testifies to his ability to select and develop wise and progressive executives.

Atlanta has a peculiar interest in the Loew organization because its oldest theater, the Grand, has been a member of the circuit of Loew houses for 17 years, having been rebuilt only recently into one of the finest and most modern picture palaces of the south. Atlanta is also the home city of Colonel Ed A. Schiller, now vice president in charge of the operations of this outstanding amusement organization, who, despite the fact that his duties require him to spend most of his time in New York, still maintains a residence here.

The dominance of the position occupied by the organization founded by Marcus Loew when it reaches its thirtieth milestone is proof of his sound and upright business methods and a justification of his faith in the appeal of screen entertainment to the public.

SECRETS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Most Washington secrets usually are passed around in stage whispers sooner or later. The recent hurried meeting of federal reserve bank governors was no secret that was really kept. Those in the meeting would not even tell their best friends about it.

The governors are known to have been summoned hastily. No one knew they were to meet until after their session opened. Governors from the far west were left out because they could not get here in time.

After a general council meeting, the board itself held a private session at which the real business was transacted. At this session a resolution was drawn up and signed. Certain legal authorities were called in and consulted on the text of the resolution before it was signed.

These facts carry certain definite implications.

GUESSES

The only legal question about which the federal reserve would be resolving at this time is the ownership of gold held by federal reserve banks. Their gold is, or was, the basis of our currency. If Mr. Roosevelt devalues to 50 cents he would seize half of this gold for the government.

The reserve bankers have been murmuring behind their hands that this would be illegal.

The obvious deduction is that the council wanted to protest against the legality of seizure of their gold; that it instructed the board to prepare such a resolution; that the board prepared it with legal help and presented it to President Roosevelt.

You can be reasonably sure that is what happened.

HASTE?

That does not mean the federal reserve people felt that Mr. Roosevelt would devalue right away. They felt private information indicated that he would take no steps along that line for three months. His action today in calling in all gold may mean that the reserve bankers were wrong in their time guess.

Other items discussed at the meeting were: (a) What about the small banks which cannot qualify for the deposit guarantee fund; (b) the influence on banking of direct government loans to industry; and (c) how loans may be made to municipalities.

It was these items rather than the resolution on gold ownership which caused all the haste in summoning the meeting.

RESISTANCE

Congressional republicans have discovered in their private pow-wows one common ground upon which they will resist the administration. They will combat all legislation centralizing more power in Washington.

The keynote to that campaign was sounded by Senator Vandenberg in a speech to newspaper businessmen out west recently. A good constructive fight can be conducted on that plane without involvement in politics. State's rights democrats in congress can be stirred up to resist the trend toward federal absorption of authority.

In fact, they already have.

STEPS

That was the feeling behind the house ways and means action resisting the treasury plan of having the federal government collect all liquor taxes and refunding the states their share.

States and municipalities are already indebted to the federal government through RFC loans which cannot be repaid any time soon. The NRA, AAA and PWA have similarly strengthened federal jurisdiction on every side. Prohibition repeal was hammered through the state legislatures by unusual federal pressure. Banking is being federalized by strong progressive steps.

If the administration recommends legislation to handle municipal debts, that will mean another strong link in the ever widening chain.

MILK

Agriculture Secretary Wallace is exercising his muscles daily for a strong blow at the milk problem. Those nearest to him whisper that they have heard him howling about the number of producers' organizations being nothing more than "distributors in overalls."

The solution he is working on will include a fixed farm price but no retail price. He figures that retail prices will be lower if permitted to seek their own level.

NOTES

No matter how much resolving is done, the federal reserve will give up its gold in the end. Mr. Roosevelt can avoid an argument if he wants to, by getting authority from congress.

ARE YOU ENJOYING YOUR SOJOURN IN THE SAHARA?

Spite of the repression and all, well-to-do American people who can't get to California or Florida or Bermuda spend most of the winter in the Sahara. Have you a little Sahara in your home? Chances are you have. Nearly everybody except a few of us in the north have. Even we have to fight like hell, like cats and dogs to escape the blighting desert aridity.

One memorable winter I resolved to preserve proper humidity at all costs, and accordingly I had every radiator in the house fitted with the only efficient portable humidifier I have yet seen. This consists of a capacious tank covered with a grill or screen, under which is a tank or framework by means of which several yards of porous wicking is suspended so that it dips in the water and draws it up where it is readily evaporated. Such a thing is a tank or framework by means of which several yards of porous wicking is suspended so that it dips in the water and draws it up where it is readily evaporated.

Well, that winter we did not use so much fuel to keep comfortable, but one thing you might suspect that the reason we required less fuel was that I got so much more exercise keeping the enormous flock of humidifiers well oiled. At all hours of the day and night I was tending water to these thirsty brutes, but I never got overheated that way, really. We found the lower household temperature comfortable. This because the humidity did not fall so low. It is a well known fact that a household temperature of 65 with a fair amount of moisture in the air is more comfortable for all hands than a temperature of 75 with the air excessively dried out as it always is at that temperature, no matter how the air is heated.

There are now available various excellent humidifying systems which can be built in when the house is erected. For the sake of health, comfort and economy, every new home should include such provisions for conditioning the atmosphere. It saves not only health and good looks, but the furniture and your plants. It certainly saves the skin.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Most Washington secrets usually are passed around in stage whispers sooner or later. The recent hurried meeting of federal reserve bank governors was no secret that was really kept. Those in the meeting would not even tell their best friends about it.

Sprague's Critical Analysis Of S. Monetary Problems

By DR. O. M. W. SPRAGUE, Until Recently Chief Economic Adviser of the United States Treasury.

(This article concludes Dr. Sprague's series analyzing the Roosevelt monetary policies. In this final chapter, the doctor outlines the permanent monetary arrangements he thinks should follow the present emergency measures of the administration.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The establishment of a monetary system and the determination of monetary policies that will yield a dollar of reasonably stable purchasing power in the future is an entirely different problem from that with which we have been concerned in the examination of monetary and business policies directed toward the immediate need of bringing about a trade recovery and a rise in prices. Assuming that that happy state has now been reached, I will in this article consider the permanent monetary arrangements which it will then be desirable to establish.

Broadly speaking, we need a monetary system under which the volume of credit and currency will increase with growth in the volume of trade, but not increase so rapidly in periods of active business as in periods of depression or other undesirable developments.

To maintain equilibrium. We also need a monetary system which will so function as to check wide departures from economic equilibrium between the various trading countries.

These objectives cannot be obtained by monetary means alone, but we may reasonably expect that monetary arrangements shall be such as to exert a powerful influence in attaining them. An improved international gold standard, in my judgment, affords the greatest promise of reaching the desired end. It would seem to be the obviously wise course. In the monetary system of the future upon the foundation of existing knowledge and experience. Recognizing defects in the working of the gold standard in the past, we should seek to overcome them by specific and definite modifications of statutory limitations on central banking practices.

The first requirement of a satisfactory monetary system is that there shall be a metallic base which will permit such expansion of credit and currency as shall correspond to growth in the future volume of trade. It is, of course, possible that the output of gold from the mines may prove inadequate for the purpose. As monetary gold stocks are now ample, this is not a serious matter at the moment. It is a contingency, however, which must be met during a long period of declining gold production by a very gradual reduction in statutory reserve requirements for central banks and banks and of central banks in other countries.

In order still further to insure an adequate metallic base for credit and currency, some part of the gold standard should be made convertible into silver. How far it may be desirable ultimately to go in this direction can hardly be determined in advance. A comparatively small percentage would be sufficient to establish the practice of silver sales to return gold to the international arrangements designed to steady its price.

The advantage to be derived from a more stable price of silver has been somewhat exaggerated by many who favor action regarding this metal. It could have no direct bearing upon the trade of the United States with India because British India for long has been upon a gold or sterling basis. From a currency point of view variations in the price of silver are of significant importance in the case of China. It should be further borne in mind that any arrangement designed to increase the use of silver in central banks should include provisions designed to establish a stable value for silver not very far above its value at the time the arrangements were put into effect. A decidedly higher price for silver than now obtains would be unwelcome in most of the countries now on a paper basis to return to gold on the basis of a very considerable appreciation of their currency.

After making certain that the supply of gold and silver shall be sufficient to maintain a metallic base for credit and currency, it is also necessary to protect that metallic base itself from diminution by influences of a non-monetary character. In view of recent experience the future danger of hoarding will be far greater after the return to gold than in former times when gold has been a return to the gold standard.

Expected to Stay. When, for example, Great Britain returned to gold in 1925, it was expected that the world that country would remain on gold indefinitely, or at least until there might be another great war. Having been on a gold standard in time of peace, uncertainties will linger for a generation or more. Any untoward circumstances are likely to lead to a revival of withdrawals for hoarding purposes. Similarly, in the United States, departure from gold at a time when gold stocks were ample is certain to leave fears that similar action may be taken on some future emergency.

In these circumstances, I suggest that before returning to the gold standard it is essential that an agreement be made between the principal trading countries of the world that deliveries of gold between themselves, and that arrangements be made for the purchase of new gold from the mines by the various central banks, in their turn furnishing such amounts of gold as may be required for industrial uses.

The provision of metallic base adequate to support whatever amount of currency and credit may be needed is the single most important problem. Economic and price stability require intelligence and foresight in the use of credit, as well as an adequate volume. Appropriate measures when economic activities are sensitive to influences exerted by the quantity and cost of credit, are necessary.

Commodities Not Key. In periods of depression, the situation is insensitive to these influences. It is only in periods of business activity that a potent influence can be exerted through credit. But to know when action should be taken we cannot rely exclusively upon any price index. Commodity prices are not a reliable guide.

COLD WAVE CRIPS NORTHERN STATES

Six Lives Lost in Lake Michigan and Atlantic Ocean Tragedies.

By The Associated Press.

Tragedies accompanied bitter cold that had settled down Thursday in sections of the northern states from Maine to Montana.

Although a measure of relief came to the Midwest there were plenty of frigid temperature reports, such as 12 below zero at Holsters Mills, Maine; 40 below at Cook, Minn.; 30 below at Duluth, and 33 below at Pembina, North Dakota.

Lake Superior claimed the lives of three workmen when a heavy snow blow used to make a trail across St. Louis bay, crashed through the ice.

Two fishing craft still were missing off Portland, Maine, after a third, the Sunapee, reported safely, and the fourth, the Portland fishing schooner Benjamin Thompson, which was caught in Tuesday's blizzard, came into Boothbay Harbor, Maine, Thursday morning three of her crew, lost at sea. A coast guard ice tug cut through six miles of ice in Lake Michigan off Chicago, located a schooner missing Tuesday night, with a crew of three, and towed it to safety.

A dozen children reported finding bodies in the streets of victims who had died of exposure.

Cold, hungry and near exhaustion, four men who had been missing since they set out Tuesday from Baltimore in a 30-foot launch, were found early Thursday by a coast guard cutter off Poole's Island near the head of the Chesapeake bay.

Snow storms which had reached a maximum of two feet in some sections turned into blizzards over the northern Great Lakes, and there were blizzards in the Adirondacks. Roads were piled high with drifts in some of the New England states.

It was the coldest in three years in New York city, the minimum being 9 below. It had risen to 29 above at 3 p. m. Chicago had hit 14 below, but it began dropping as night approached. Weather forecasters said temperatures "more near to normal" might be expected in Chicago and most of the Midwest tomorrow.

Temperatures in the Canadian northwest ranged from 30 to 52 degrees below zero, most of the severe weather was expected to follow rain on the Pacific coast.

A glance at the weather map showed the following representative temperatures: 10 below at St. Paul, Minn.; 26 below at Upton, Mass.; 6 below at Albany

How To Get Two Jags on One Drink Or Stay Sober on Many Is Disclosed

By F. B. COLTON, Associated Press Science Writer. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 28.—(P)—How to drink liquor and stay sober, and a way to get two separate "jags" out of one round of drinks were described by a psychologist today before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

They were incidental results of new experiments on the effects of alcohol and coffee on the human body, conducted at Cornell University by Dr. A. L. Winsor and Dr. E. I. Strongin.

The experiments confirmed the old belief that drinking black coffee is a good way to recover from effects of drinking liquor and made the new discovery that alcohol and coffee have an antagonistic effect against each other in the body. Taken together, alcohol and coffee have a tendency to "cancel out" each other's effects, leaving the drinker about where he started.

The tests showed also why one cocktail before eating and coffee afterward may aid digestion and why drinkers are thirsty for water after a number of alcoholic drinks.

The reason was, the scientists found, that alcohol stimulated the flow of saliva from the parotid gland, located in front of the ear, while a drinker is sipping his drink, but greatly reduces the saliva flow as soon as it enters his blood. The saliva flow is most greatly reduced 45 minutes after drinking the liquor.

Coffee, on the other hand, increases the flow of saliva, both while being swallowed and when the caffeine enters the blood about 14 minutes later. But when liquor and coffee are taken together, the tests showed, the coffee's effect offsets that of the alcohol, and the saliva flow is normal. The saliva flow was measured by collecting it through a suction disc placed over the duct through which it entered the drinker's mouth.

How alcohol and coffee change a drinker's steadiness and co-ordination between hand and eye was measured by having him keep an electric light focused on a moving photo-electric cell during the tests. Whenever he failed to keep the light on the cell an automatic record was made, and he was credited with three errors for every second the light was off the cell.

These tests showed that drinking alcohol increased errors from 2 per minute up to 25, and this unsteadiness continued for two hours. When a sober man drank coffee, however, his co-ordination was actually improved by it. When a man drank liquor and then coffee immediately afterward, his co-ordination first dropped off as a result of the liquor and then improved when the coffee took effect, returning nearly to normal. But the effect of the coffee wore off first, and then the intoxicating effects of the liquor reappeared after being held in check by the coffee.

The same effect was produced on the saliva flow when coffee was drunk immediately after alcohol. The alcohol stopped the flow, then the coffee started it again, but when the coffee's effect disappeared before that of the alcohol, the saliva flow was stopped again.

All the tests were made on an empty stomach, with alcohol diluted with two parts of water and doses varying from 30 to 75 cubic centimeters (roughly a quarter to a half of a large water glass of alcohol). The doses of coffee

Chilled Carrier Accused Of Making Letter Bonfire

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(P)—Cold weather or no cold weather, it's strictly against government rules to burn mail to keep warm.

The government alleged that Robert B. Smith, a substitute mailman during the pre-Christmas rush, made a bonfire of 200 letters on December 4 to warm his hands. A United States commissioner held him in bonds of $1,000.

Smith denied the charge.

Soviet Death Driver Sentenced to Death

MOSCOW, Dec. 28.—(P)—Although Soviet Russia's criminal codes provide a maximum sentence of ten years' imprisonment in such cases, the Moscow city court today decreed death for Valentine Ivanov, a chauffeur convicted of reckless driving in an accident which resulted in four deaths.

The 28-year-old chauffeur was found guilty of driving a speeding automobile into a marching column of red army soldiers on the Leningrad highway on the outskirts of Moscow December 3.

The decision to apply "the highest measure of social protection—shooting," was based, the court explained, on the antisocial record of the chauffeur, a senior worker in a large garage.

AUTO ACCIDENT KILLS OFFICER AND PRIVATE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 28.—(P)—Lieutenant John C. Price, 21, and Private Roy D. Aven, 22, were killed last night when their car crashed into the back of a pipe-laden truck near Walters. Lieutenant Price was graduated from West Point last year.

They were one pint, with more if the subject was used to drinking much coffee. Effect of alcohol on a man varied considerably with his weight, age, previous drinking habits and general self-control, the scientists found.

ROOSEVELT CONSIDERS FEDERAL EXPORT BODY

Permanent Set-Up Sought to Dispose of Surplus Products Abroad.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(P)—President Roosevelt discussed the creation of a government export agency today with state department and agriculture officials.

George N. Peek, head of the temporary foreign trade corporation, outlined his recommendations for a permanent organization to stimulate American sales abroad.

No conclusions were announced after the meetings, but Peek and the government officials, indicated they were confident of arranging a permanent set-up.

Shortly before the conferences, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, suggested that full benefits from recognition of Russia through increased trade interchange of farm and factory products might be gained by setting up a private corporation with government financial assistance to buy and sell domestic supplies abroad either on a cash or credit basis.

He made the proposal to former Senator Brookhart, agriculture department Russian trade advisor, for submission to other interested department heads.

Norris said Russia needed American foodstuffs, including meats and lard, and large amounts of cotton, electrical machinery, automobile trucks and tools, but would require some short and long-term credit, the latter probably four or five years, and also an American market for her wool pulp, furs, manganese and other products to balance her extensive purchases.

Doctor May Operate On Baby's Brain Today

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28.—(P)—After a second examination today Dr. Walter E. Dandy, noted surgeon, said he probably would attempt a difficult brain operation on five-month-old Sue Trammell, of Houston, Texas, tomorrow.

He certainly would not perform the operation before that, Dr. Dandy declared.

The child was flown 1,400 miles from Houston to Baltimore, arriving here early yesterday.

The blue-eyed baby, cooling in her crib at the hospital, was described by attendants as appearing bright and showing no indications of pain or suffering.

BYRD SHIP CREEPS THROUGH WATERS FILLED WITH 'BERGS'

ABOARD ADMIRAL BYRD'S FLAGSHIP, off Antarctica, Dec. 28. (via Mackay radio)—(P)—The flagship of the Byrd antarctic expedition through icebergs-strewn seas, after high winds, which had buffeted her for 36 hours, subsided this morning.

Until 6:30 a. m. today the vessel was still headed in a northwest gale, in order to give the big seaplane a clear path to the lee of the icebergs.

When the sun broke clear for a few minutes and the wind abated, the flagship swung around and headed east at full speed. Admiral Richard Byrd was anxious, to make up for four days lost on account of fog and storms. Later the speed was reduced because of icebergs.

It was the first sight of the sun since Friday.

MULE SHIPPER DENIED REPARATION ON RATES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(P)—Examiner J. J. Williams proposed today to the interstate commerce commission that it deny reparation to J. W. Patterson for alleged overcharges on horses and mules in carloads from points in Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado to destinations in Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, South Carolina and Georgia.

At the same time he proposed that in the future a new set of freight rates be charged.

WAREHOUSE CHARGES ON TOBACCO PROPOSED

Tentative Code Strikes at Unfair Methods of Competition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(P)—Proposed warehouse charges, varying for each type of leaf, and the classification of unfair methods of competition were contained in a code submitted to the farm administration today by the tobacco warehouse industry.

The hours and wages provisions of the code, submitted to the NRA, outlined a 48-hour week, with seasonal exceptions, and a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour for unskilled labor. A minimum weekly wage of $18 would be paid clerical employees except on markets that last year sold more than 7,000,000 pounds where the minimum would be $15 a week.

Payments to individual truckers to induce them to deliver tobacco at a particular warehouse came first in the list of "unfair methods of competition."

This practice was described as a "racket" by F. C. Clay, of Lexington, Ky., secretary of the National Association of Tobacco Warehousemen.

The states of North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia have laws fixing warehouse charges but other states in which the code will operate, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia and Maryland, do not.

On motion of F. W. Brown, of Georgia, the prevailing warehouse rates in the state were incorporated into the code as Georgia had not been covered and does not have a law governing charges. Virtually all Florida auction tobacco is sold on Georgia markets.

These charges for Georgia are 25 cents auction fee a pile for each pile under 200 pounds and 50 cents for each pile over 200 pounds; a weighing charge of 25 cents a hundred pounds; and a commission fee of 2-1/2 per cent.

Because South Carolina laws do not permit the sale of ungraded tobacco at auction, C. O. Dixon, of Mullins, S. C., tobacco man, asked that a provision barring private sales be amended. Dixon said the tobacco not worth grading, such as scraps, is sold privately in his state.

Testimony agreed that 360 sales an hour should be the maximum auction rate, but Brown objected to a provision fixing a minimum of 15 minutes to be allowed a farmer to reject a sale. He suggested 10 minutes but found no support for this more.

A Real Advance in Motor Car Engineering

De Luxe Ford Sedan, One of eleven handsome new body types, all with V-8 cylinder motor

NEW DUAL CARBURETION AND DUAL INTAKE MANIFOLD ADD TO POWER AND ECONOMY OF THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1934

LIKE a pair of lungs for this powerful motor, this new system of carburetion and intake supplies vaporized gasoline evenly to all eight cylinders. Two distinct advantages result from it:

1. More even compression of fuel, giving still greater power, faster acceleration, quicker starting and smoother performance in cold weather.

2. More complete utilization of fuel, more miles to the gallon of gasoline, with consequent economy. Crankcase dilution is reduced to a minimum, thereby conserving oil with still further economy in operation.

Increased efficiency at less cost is a notable achievement. Yet it is only one of many improvements which distinguish this new and greater Ford V-8 for 1934.

Clear-vision Ventilation. Constant Supply of Fresh Air without Drafts or Obstruction to View

As perfected in the New Ford, this system of ventilation operates efficiently at all speeds, winter or summer.

In cold or stormy weather, the new adjustable window ventilators can be opened the desired amount to provide fresh air.

Individual control on front door and rear-quarter windows enables passengers to obtain desired ventilation without causing discomfort to others. Windshield and windows do not fog when ventilators are opened.

In warm weather, the windshield—which opens—and the cowl ventilator provide additional fresh air.

This New Ford is a more comfortable car. It has new spring flexibility, improved shock absorbers, softer seat springs, and deeper seat cushions.

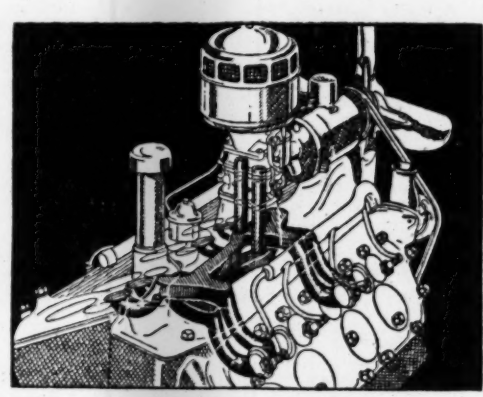

It is a handsomer car. New lines, new chromium-plated radiator shell and grille, new interior design.

But above all it is an efficient and economical car, a wonderful value for the price, and an automobile on which you can depend for long and satisfactory service.

NOW ON DISPLAY AT ALL FORD DEALERS

$515 up

(F. O. B. Detroit, plus freight, delivery and tax. Bumpers and spare tire extra. Convenient terms through Authorized Ford Finance Plans of Universal Credit Company.)

Dual Carburetion gives smoother operation in all driving ranges from idling to highest top speed.

To open ventilators, give handle half-turn after window is raised to the top. Simple. Easy. Efficient.

Bobby Leads First Foursome as Jones Closes Saturday

BREAK O' DAY!

By Ralph McBride

Announcement was made yesterday that the Bobby Jones golf course, whose rolling and well-trapped terrain may be seen from Northside drive, would be opened for public play on Saturday afternoon.

It is rather frigid weather in which to open a golf course, but I am sure this one will attract a great gallery and a large array of players eager to test the city's first 18-hole municipal course. Atlanta has four municipal courses, all nine-hole affairs. There are four private courses with nine-hole layouts.

The addition of an 18-hole course brings the city's total to six of that type. This means that Atlanta offers 14 golf courses, five of which are municipal.

This does not include a nine-hole course near Hapeville and the Sweetwater and Spiller courses, each nine holes, at Austell. They are but a few minutes' drive from the center of the city. They are public courses.

And so, one might say, there are 17 golf courses in the city, seven of which are open to the public. This seems to me to be a rather impressive showing, one which Bobby Jones' home city should make without any undue pointing with pride.

A WORTH-WHILE TRIBUTE.
This naming a really splendid course for Bobby Jones is a deserved and worth-while tribute. It will do better than bronze or marble or stone.

I wonder if Atlantans can recall or recapture some of the thrill that ran through the city that steaming summer day when Bobby Jones was playing at Interlachen in the national open and again when he was playing for his fourth, and final, championship at Merion—all within the space of four months. The British open and amateur and the national open were in the bag and Merion proved easy.

Atlanta was a mad city, especially on the day the national open was won. I recall that everyone, when the news finally spread, wore a broad grin. It was a very happy day. And Bobby Jones belonged to the city that day.

And I recall also the amazing rush to the sporting goods stores that followed "the grand slam" in golf. Every dufer of purest ray serene wanted BETTER sticks, because he was convinced that Jones' better sticks had aided tremendously. The hundreds of beginners bought simply "a set" and started in, trying to emulate Jones.

He's been the idea of a hero, anyhow. He's never said or done anything which would reflect on himself as a national character and he has been a consistent credit to the game of golf and to decent things generally.

And so I hope that Atlanta will be out Saturday afternoon to see Bobby walk up and dedicate the course—not by breaking a bottle of wine over a sandbox, but by breaking—oh, say 71, on the par 71-course which stretches 6,423 yards from the back tees.

"THROWING LIONS TO THE CHRISTIANS."

Quite the best line on the Rose Bowl football game, featuring the Columbia Lions and the Stanford eleven on New Year's Day in the annual California real estate contest, is by Mr. Paul Gallico.

After viewing the Lions and the Stanford team at work, he wrote:
"It appears that they are going to throw the Lions to the Christians."

It was the size and the number of apparently expert men in the Stanford lineup which impressed Mr. Gallico so greatly—as it will anyone who has been out there of late years since the coast really got down to business about football.

A letter from Dr. Thomasville, commented on a statement some days ago that they simply grew everything larger on the coast than in the inland sections. "Here," writes Dr. Andrews, "is proof of your being a most conservative and truthful sports writer. They certainly do things in a big way." He incloses a photograph of a California bass violin, or bull fiddle. It is herewith reproduced. I am, sorry doctor, that they did not send you a picture of a full-sized California bull fiddle. The one inclosed is the smaller size.

I still recall the lament of Mr. Harry Mehre, the Georgia football coach, the morning after the 31-to-0 victory of Southern California in the big Olympic stadium.

Mr. Mehre stuck his head into the room where lay the football reporters from Georgia.

"How do you feel?" asked Mr. Mehre.

The football reporters moved tentatively and suggested that they felt as well as could be expected. Whereupon Mr. Mehre ordered up some fruit. A few minutes later a couple of bellboys came struggling up with a bowl containing some grapes.

"Look," said Mr. Mehre, holding up one of the grapes, which was not quite as large as an orange. "What chance would a little Georgia grape have against a California grape?"

At this moment it slipped from his fingers and fell with a thud on one of his dogs. Mr. Mehre wore a carpet slipper on this bruised and injured dog until he was almost home.

I am sorry, but I agree with Mr. Gallico. They are going to toss the Lions to the Christians in direct violation of the ethics of such business as established by the late Mr. Nero, of Rome. I would it were otherwise.

EASTERN TEAM IN FINAL DRILL FOR WEST GAME

Feathers, Vol Star, Is Replaced by Everhardus, Michigan.

By Russell J. Newland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—(AP)—After seeing eastern football stars shuffled about in practice for the last five days, observers had their first glimpse today of what is expected to be the team that line up for the kickoff against the west in the annual charity game here New Year's Day. Coaches for the east, Dick Hanley of Northwestern, and Andy Kerr of Colgate, were noncommittal on the subject, but those who have followed the workouts at Stanford University believe the starting eleven has just about been decided upon.

The team that prepared to have found favor was distinguished by the absence of Beattie Feathers, halfback from the University of Wisconsin, and one of the outstanding stars of the Southern conference.

Whether the switch is merely another of a long list of experiments was not explained, but Feathers' place was taken by Herman Everhardus from the University of Michigan. Everhardus held down the left halfback position on the eleven that drilled on offensive tactics steadily for an hour today.

The eleven receiving the most attention from the east's mentors lined up as follows:
Left end, Robinson, Minnesota; left tackle, Schammel, Iowa; left guard, Ceppi, Princeton; center, Bernard, Michigan; right guard, Galus, Ohio State; right tackle, Walton, Pittsburgh; right end, Skladany, Pittsburgh; quarterback, Sebastian, Pittsburgh; left half, Everhardus, Michigan; right half, Laws, Iowa; fullback, Law, Notre Dame.

It averages 198 pounds on the line and 175 pounds in the backfield. Law and Everhardus, who have shown the trickiest running with the ball during the training period, have alternated at handling the safety position.

The 22 members of the squad are in fine fettle. Tom Hupke, Alabama guard, has recovered from a wrenched knee and a cut on Galus' head has healed.

Scrimmage against a pickup team from this section will be held tomorrow.

HICKMAN MAKES ALLSTAR TEAM

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Bill Hewitt, former Michigan star who plays end for the Chicago Bears, was named to the All-Star team.

Hewitt, the big fellow from Minnesota who is fullback on the same team; Red Badger, veteran end of the New York Giants; Harry Newman, all-American quarterback from Michigan in 1932 who graduated to the Giants; Clifford (Gyp) Battles, of West Virginia Wesleyan and the Boston Redskins; and Glenn Presnell, of Nebraska and the Portsmouth Spartans, were the outstanding players of the National Professional Football league during the past season according to the coaches of the circuit.

This quintet drew the high totals in the voting of the coaches to pick the all-league team, all of them drawing more than 20 votes by the method of reckoning which gives five votes for a first-team choice and three for second.

The teams, with votes for each player, follow:
FIRST TEAM
End—Hewitt, Chicago Bears (50).
Tackle—Hobard, Green Bay (28).
Guard—Hickman, Brooklyn (24).
Center—Hickman, Brooklyn (24).
Quarterback—Hewitt, Chicago Bears (24).
Fullback—Hewitt, Chicago Bears (24).
SECOND TEAM
End—Faherty, New York (14).
Tackle—Griff, New York (14).
Guard—Hickman, Chicago Bears (21).
Center—Hickman, Chicago Bears (21).
Quarterback—Hewitt, Chicago Bears (21).
Fullback—Hewitt, Chicago Bears (21).
THIRD TEAM
End—Edging, Portsmouth (11).
Tackle—Friedman, Philadelphia (11).
Guard—Hickman, Chicago Bears (11).
Center—Hickman, Chicago Bears (11).
Quarterback—Hewitt, Chicago Bears (11).
Fullback—Hewitt, Chicago Bears (11).

Fullback—Musick, Boston (23).

Leg Training.

It wasn't so long ago that Keene Fitzpatrick, one of the greatest of all trainers and coaches, told me that one reason for 10 years he was able to walk far more than they do, even if they do not face an athletic career, is helpful in the way of general health.

There is no place for weak, unworked legs in football, tennis, basketball, boxing, hockey, basketball or the large majority of sports.

After a hard baseball campaign, Ty Cobb used to hunt all winter—to live on legs the better part of each year.

THE SPORT LIGHT

By Frankland Rice

To Babe Ruth—1934.

Sultan of Swat and Czar of Clout, High Mandarin of Maul—Assault on the well-known snout Of each fast moving ball. For twenty years your mighty mace Has drummed its battle cry Beyond the azure fields of space In wave lengths to the sky.

Now time, that ancient, cock-eyed yep, Is pointing to the gate Where Cobb and legs took the rap, And Wagner met his fate; Where one by one they've passed from sight To beat above the roar.

To beat above the roar, "Game called!" along the rim of night That knew their final score. But not yet, Babe—your blasting bull Let time, the snatcher, sit and sulk, Or grab some other bloke; We need the songs your big mace sings, The old heart-lifting crash, We need the music that your strings Its music from your ash.

Famed hammer of horses' pelts, How's luck and legs took the rap, Against the distant blue; The world can well afford to see Its share of flaming yep, The old heart-lifting crash, We need the music that your strings Its music from your ash.

Without George Herman Ruth?

Best Legs in Baseball.

The subject of legs is going to be an important matter in 1934, now a short pitch away, because this subject will have an extremely close connection with the playing dates of Babe Ruth.

When Ruth passed from picture, the game's greatest fame of color also faded, but the Babe feels fairly sure that he can handle at least a hundred games this season by the proper sort of leg nursing, attention and care.

This brings up the point: What constitutes the best pair of legs that ever carried a ball player from spot to spot in the course of a career?

There were the legs that carried 200 pounds of Lajoie and 195 pounds of Wagner through 22 years or more of big league action.

There was also the amazing pair of legs that operated in the busy transportation department of Ty Cobb's 24 seasons.

There were the slender under-pinnings of Max Carey, moving with grace and speed to base for some 19 seasons.

And there are the proportionately slender legs and even slender ankles that have carried the big body bulk of Babe Ruth for 20 campaigns. From this selected list I offer the following all-time ranking in the matter of baseball legs:

1—Ty Cobb.
2—Babe Ruth.
3—Honus Wagner.
4—Max Carey.
5—Napoleon Lajoie.

For more than 20 years Ty Cobb put his leg power or leg stamina to the hardest test baseball has ever known.

Cobb's legs carried him at top speed to more stolen bases, to more runs, than any ball player has ever approached.

They were two iron horses directed by a speed demon who always had to go.

And yet they had only a shade on the legs of Babe Ruth, called upon to carry nearly 400 pounds more in the way of baggage.

Grid Coaches Plan Fight For Jobs as Meet Ends.

Alex Will Meet With Rules Body

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—Bible appointed a committee of four to meet with the rules committee at New York in February, to present the coaches' suggestion for changes in the playing code. He named Noble Kizer, of Purdue; Lou Little, of Columbia; W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech; and Orrin E. Holmgren, of Washington State College.

By William Weekes.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Armed with plans and advice for protecting their jobs, members of the American Football Coaches' Association headed for the scenes of all-star games or winter quarters today.

The plan for fighting back at criticism characterized as unfair, which has cost many coaches their places, was suggested by D. O. (Tuss) McLaughry, of Brown University, chairman of the committee on ways and means of making the association more beneficial to the members. The advice on how to make the coaches' position more secure, was dispensed by H. J. Stegeman, athletic director at the University of Georgia.

McLaughry suggested that a committee be appointed by the president to investigate any charges of unfair dismissal and to give the cases nationwide publicity. The committee will be named by Dana X. Bible, of the University of Nebraska, who succeeded Daniel E. McGugin, of Vanderbilt, as president.

STEGEMAN TALKS.

Stegeman gave six reasons why capable coaches fail to hang on to their jobs. He pointed out that 91 coaches have moved in and out of two Southern conferences with a total membership of 23 colleges and universities since 1922. The reasons he gave as being partly responsible were:

The coach failed to mix with other members of the faculty; he added nothing to the life of his community; he built a football team; he specialized on football to the exclusion of other sports; he failed to place himself at the disposal of the college administration; he developed temperamental, becoming unbearable to even his best friends, in his seriousness over games; he was discourteous to newsmen who, in retaliation, failed to support him.

Hugo Bezdek, director of physical education and athletics at Pennsylvania State College, declared that simplicity is needed to keep football in its present position in the colleges and universities. He pointed out that many other extra curricular sports, such as basketball, baseball, and tennis, are more popular than football.

Bible also appointed a committee composed of Noble Kizer, of Purdue; Lou Little, of Columbia; O. E. Hollingberry, of Washington State College; and W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, to sit with the rules committee at New York in February. The coaches will present suggestions for changes in the rules, to the committee.

MEET ENDS.

The convention, the thirteenth annual affair of the association, broke up last night after the coaches had awarded the "brown derby" to the best story teller was omitted, it was announced by Harry G. Kipke, of Michigan, the toastmaster, due to the lack of story tellers of the caliber of the late Major Frank Cavanaugh, of Fordham; the late Knute K. Rockne, and Babe Zupke, of Illinois, who failed to attend the convention.

The 23 coaches named to the rules committee by Coach Bible at the conclusion of the banquet include: Riff Gugin, Louisiana State; Dan E. McGugin, Vanderbilt; Wing Alexander, Georgia Tech; Harry Mehre, Georgia; with Lou Little, Columbia, chairman.

NAZI PERSECUTION OF JEWS SCORED
BY SEN. RUSSELL

United States Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., in an interview for the Jewish Morning Journal, of New York, obtained by F. Taffel, of Atlanta, Thursday said that the "vicious anti-Semitic movement in Germany is a grave reflection upon the civilization of that nation, and it is absolutely incomprehensible and astounding to those who are familiar with the contributions of Jewish citizens to German achievements."

Senator Russell said that "there is no place in the United States for religious intolerance or race hatred, and he emphasized the fact that he is deeply interested in the investigation being carried on by the committee on immigration under the direction of Congressman Samuel Dickstein to develop the activity of Nazi propaganda in the United States, and the recommendations which the committee will make to curb any movement which will be subversive to American ideals."

Senator Russell told Mr. Taffel that the Jewish race in Georgia has proved itself loyal since the settlement of the state, and its patriotism has been marked in every war in which this country has been engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Goddard Are Hosts At Dance Feting Lovely Daughter

Charming Miss Elkin Goddard, schoolgirl daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Goddard, was honor guest last evening at the dinner-dance given by her parents at the Piedmont Driving Club assembling several hundred members of the college set and younger contingent. Miss Goddard, who attends Ogontz school at Rydal, Pa., is spending the holidays as the guest of her parents at their Druid Hills residence.

Scarlet poinsettias lent festive and effective color to the scene as the centerpiece of the tables where dinner was served. Green and red featured the color motif used in the ballroom, where a brilliantly lighted Christmas tree was placed before the fireplace. Garlands of laurel leaves were festooned from the ceiling, forming a canopy effect and suspended at intervals from the ropes of greenery were multicolored red stars, electrically illuminated. Clusters of smilax studded with poinsettias adorned the pillars surrounding the ballroom, which were entwined with ropes of smilax.

Miss Goddard was a lovely figure in her gown of eggshell metal cloth made with a bouffant skirt and featuring a broad-shouldered effect. The back decollete dropped to form a low V line and red ribbons were placed at the waistline below the V line. She carried a miff formed of red and eggshell colored flowers and she wore red satin slippers.

Mrs. Goddard wore a gown of blue lace veiling blue satin, and completing her costume was a spray of orchids. Mrs. Stanton Pickens, sister of the honor guest, was crowned in black velvet fashioned with a bodice of metal cloth and having a low back decollete in V shape. She wore a shoulder spray of gardenias.

BLOOD MONEY

BY IRVIN S. COBB

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. Gilbert Jonathan Reed, who lives in a village near the eastern end of Long Island, is called to the home of his wealthy step-brother, Uncas Cressap, four miles distant, who was found dead by violence in his hotel house on Kettle pond. His Chinese servant is also found dead in the same room. The chief of police and physician of the village arrive and they are taken to the scene of the crime by a guard on the estate. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT V.

"Right you are," agreed Bray, with a faltering hesitancy. "That's why I want the coroner to pay special attention to that Chinaman's insides when he autopsies him."

"Ah!" Mr. Motley was being very sage about it. "You think then the vital organs show poison?"

"No, but if they should show a concealed deadly weapon in the nature of a sharpened something—maybe a father's hatchet, maybe a missus and children's size knife, maybe even a Boy Scout's ax—I'll be that pleased! Because if the Chin died on the spot immediately he bashed his boss' head in, how else would he get rid of the said article without he swallowed it whole?"

And Captain Bray gave vent to quite a hearty laugh.

Having enjoyed his joke, Bray switched back again to serious issues. "That tool, whatever it was, that the killing was done with," he mused, "if it's stuck away anywhere, we'll dig it up. Because I'm telling you when it comes to searching out odd corners and dark nooks, rat terriers have nothing at all on that Shapiro boy. It's not in the bathroom or near it on the shore side—we're pretty sure of that much already. But if it was clucked overboard, well out from the bank, say, well, that'll be a horse of altogether a different color. This child of water flunking us now; it has not the look about it of fresh water to me."

"Neither is it," I told him. "Strictly speaking, this pond isn't a pond—it's a miniature bay. And the creek isn't a true creek. It's a sort of small indent with an opening between two dunes out there on the beach—its pointing south—at low tide it shallows in some and sometimes at very low tide its bed shows in places. At high tide, though, there's a good strong flow through the bottle neck and a craft drawing as much as four feet or so can get in and out over the bar at the mouth."

"So you couldn't dam this cove off altogether and get it dry that way, barring you went in for a regular engineering proposition?"

"No, because while you might pump it, you couldn't drain it."

"And that's not so good." His manner was perturbed. "And the bottom of it—is it hard or soft?"

"Sand in some places, but an awful lot of black mud, especially up at the shore where it widens and runs."

"Worse and worse then for the chances of dragging. We could scratch about with grapple irons, but it's a hundred to one that we'd not scrape up anything except slime and old rubbish." He brooded chiefly over this complication before he plumped his next query at me.

"About the people working here on the place? Leave us go back and tally up on that?"

"Let's see? I'll put it this way: In a month's travel in any country you'd be hard put to it, captain, to find a more mixed up outfit racially and otherwise. I've mentioned Miss Dane. Then there's an oldish chap named Hawley Verity—'Haw' for short. He's a typical homespun product with barbed wire on his stern and seaweed in his hair instead of hayseed. He's a sort of general outdoor overseer and handy man. He looks after the boats, superintends the gardeners keeps the lawns and the landscaping in shape. In the summer he has two laborers under him. This past summer he had an Italian and a Hungarian. They probably wouldn't count in your check-up because they were paid off six weeks or so ago when the work slackened. Miss Dane could provide you with their names—I think they both live in the village."

I continued my story to Bray.

"I wouldn't figure on the women servants as being very important factors, either. There's Della, the cook. I believe her last name is Dillon. There's Greta, and she's a German girl, and the waitress, and Hilis, who is a combination of chambermaid and personal maid to Miss Dane. I imagine she's either a Finn or a Norwegian. I don't know her last name or Greta's, either. All three of those probably came from some employment agency in town. It's hard to keep track of the unique and intricate domestic economies of this house because Uncas Cressap was forever changing his help. Either they'd get sore at him for his peevishness and his fault-finding and his private habits, or he'd get sore at them for any reason or no reason at all and run 'em off the place. The laundress comes in from the outside to work by the day. I don't recall who she is, but she must live close by."

"The chauffeur, Olsen, is a young Swede, a steady, reliable looking chap. This is his first year. I'm pretty certain. His sleeping quarters are above the garage, but he takes his meals in the big house. That leaves two, and you'll agree with me that they are the most interesting two of the lot, or rather, they were, since one of them is dead. That's the Chinaman, Wong Gee. By a fiction he was supposed to be the butler, but usually he was so full of pipe dreams that about all he was fit for was to amble around in a sort of perambulating daze. He trailed after Uncas Cressap like a yellow-gray shadow—didn't ask me why. All I can say is that there seemed to be some secret bond, some understanding, between the master and the man."

"And last of all we come to Manuel Sabino, esquire. His size qualifies him for a sideshow. Going by his disposition, I'm in doubt whether he belongs in a lunatic asylum or a penitentiary. But then I confess I'm prejudiced. There's Spanish blood in the aforementioned Mr. Sabino, that's a cinch. Local gossip has it that he's a part Mexican and part Apache, which, if true, ought to form a lovely medley. He speaks English, though—when he chooses to speak, being mostly sullen and glum—with scarcely a trace of accent."

"Did you ever see one of these Arizona Gila monsters, captain? Of a desert horned frog? No? Well, I can't tell you which one of these two he most reminds me of. And when it comes to assigning him to his proper capacities in the personnel of this peculiar household, I'm, also, in some doubt. He was a sort of liaison officer for his boss. I'll put it this way—he was a link between Uncas Cressap and the servants. He didn't seem to have any assigned duties, though. For weeks at a time he wouldn't do a lick of work."

"But this I do know: This human hospital was closed to Uncas Cressap than any other living being. I don't pretend to know what the tie between them was or what hold, if any, he had on Cressap. But this I will tell you—he quarreled viciously with Cressap and made up with him—got drunk with him and got sober with him, tagged about with him or left him alone, deliberately matched his moods to suit Cressap's or deliberately didn't, apparently just as he chose. And further to endure him to all the world, he nurses a chronic grudge against all the world."

"And when did he join up with this highly interesting dime museum troupe?"

"Uncas Cressap brought him and the Chinaman with him when he came back east 12 years ago—the cross-breed out of the south was somewhere, and Wong Gee from Shanghai, or so I've heard. They were the fixtures here. The rest of the company might come and go, but they stuck."

Bray ticked off his count on the stubbed tips of his fingers: "One young lady from the south, and one local old-timer; one Dutch gal in the dining room and one Harp lady in the kitchen; two Scandinavians; a sawed-off, half-breed Greaser-Injun freak and a sick Chin; and in the summer time, just for good measure, a Ginney just as he chose. I'd call it a fair House of All Nations that this here stepbrother of yours had assembled about him."

But I liked better the one I heard of the reporters mint this evening: "Melting Pot Manor" was his coinage and I have a notion it remains in active circulation for as long as this story stands up for the score headlines and the front pages.

"Wouldn't it be well for us to give an idea of these people in the house a thorough making over without further loss of time?" said Motley.

"Well, now, Brother Motley, I'll tell you my views along that line," stated Bray. "If I were asked to do an inside job, we've got the responsible party or parties cooped up already, and if he, she or it tried to slip out on us, we'd be just as good, that's all. If it was entirely an outside job, I'd say we're standing to lose nothing by waiting until we sort of get our bearings better. Then again, if it was an outside job, we're no better off till we dig up a lead to follow after. Chancing nobody at all but mistrusting everyone whatsoever till they clear their skirts—that's our game for the present moment, I'd say."

I thought I knew what was in the back part of Bray's grizzle old head—a variant of the third degree with which the reformers could not find fault: the feasible and altogether defensive trick of leaving penned in potential suspects alone until a sudden and uncertainty, and perhaps conscience, gnawing at the taproots of the guilty one's soul, might succeed where tactics of intimidation and blind accusations very possibly would fail to bring forth the truth.

"But no doubt there'll be alibis offered in some quarters," argued Motley. "Hain't we better start probing those alibis as soon as we can?"

"The very point I was just working towards," said Bray blandly. "If a crime was committed at 10 o'clock, say, and you're on the griddle for a bit of grilling, we want to be knowing where you were right at 10 o'clock, not where you were at 11 o'clock or 12 o'clock. So that's why we want to find out—scientifically, mind you—just about when it was the party in question passed out. And that's why I'll be asking you, as the real representative of the state and county, to step along to that bathroom and give an order to do something that's outside of your own responsibility. By now my boys should be done with their photographs and their measurements and all that sort of thing. I'll be taking a shifting of the bodies. They're taken to this here Dr. Finch's."

"Finch's," I corrected.

"Sure! Dr. Finch's. He has an operating room back of his office. He's earning to loan it to us and he's very kind to loan it to us, also, to help the coroner with his duties, which by my suggestion will be first of all to examine the stomach of the deceased. From its contents and from the progress of digestion they should be able to tell us betwixt now and 5 o'clock just about how long it was after he ate the last meal he ever did eat, that he took that terrible clip between his two eyes. We'll have their report confirmed at some laboratory, but for present purposes that report will do us fine. So would you off, please, and start the machinery turning and I'll be joining you in the shake of a sheep's tail."

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

Saves Good Money! No Cooking!

If you want the best cough remedy that money can buy, mix it at home. It costs very little, yet it's the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is surprising. Any drugstore can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money as a real family supply. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, clears the air passages, and thus ends a severe cough in a hurry. Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(P)—Stocks easily took tax sale hurdles today and, in a broader advance than they had Wednesday, closed with gains of fractions to around 4 points. Volume dipped to 1,501,360 shares but the market was stronger through the session and final prices were accompanied by narrow margins. Dollar exchange was about steady, rising at times in terms of the pound sterling. There was no change in the new familiar treasury gold price, $34.06 an ounce.

Stock owners who wished to record tax losses had to sell for cash, making immediate delivery, and a goodly proportion of today's transactions were of that character.

American Telephone, Allied Chemical, United States Steel preferred and Du Pont were among the stronger leaders, rising 3 to slightly more than 4 points net. Steel common, Chrysler, American Can and Westinghouse were up about 1 to 2. Commercial Union Bank, Union Bag and Paper, Industrial Union, American Tobacco, "B" Liggett & Myers, "B" Reynolds Tobacco, "A" National Biscuits and Inland Steel were in the same range of advance.

Washington news that reached Wall Street during market hours was cheerful.

Speaker Rainey's predictions of a harmonious session of congress—one that would do no "tinkering" with the administration's recovery program—were naturally noted in the financial district.

FURTHER DROP SHOWN

IN COMMODITY PRICES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(P)—Marked reductions in prices of farm products and manufactured goods were credited by the market to a labor movement today with causing a continued drop in wholesale commodity prices during the week ended December 23.

The bureau said the index number fell to 70.4 compared to the 1926 average of 70.8 for the week ended December 16. The highest point of the year was the week of November 18, when the index registered 71.7.

Present wholesale prices, however, were reported 12 and 1 1/2 per cent above the corresponding week a year ago and 18 per cent above the low level of this year, registered during the week ended March 4.

TO BUILD RAILROAD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(P)—Permission to borrow $5,000,000 from the public works administration to construct a new branch line of railroad in southeastern Texas was granted today by the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity & Sabine Railroad Company.

The proposed line would be 115 miles long and the cost was estimated at $3,548,137 for new construction. There would be included also 90 miles of old railroad. It was estimated it would cost $1,480,000 to rehabilitate and repair this part.

What happened when Colt charged the Arab, happened quickly. As Abu Batn drew his pistol, he caught the hammer in the folds of his shob, so that the weapon was discharged. The bullet went harmlessly into the ground, but the report warned Colt of his danger.

In self-defense there was but one thing to do. He ran his blade through the sheik's throat. As he drew slowly from the body of the sheik, Zora Drinov grasped him by the arm. "Quick!" she said. "That shot will bring others. They must not find us."

Colt quickly salvaged Abu Batn's weapons and ammunition, including a long musket which the sheik had dropped when he pursued Zora. Then Zora in the lead, they ran swiftly up the trail, down which Colt had just come. Presently they heard indications of pursuit.

Colt halted Zora, saying, "Can you climb?" "Yes," she replied. "We are going to take to the trees," he said. "We can go into the jungle a short distance and throw them off the trail." With his assistance, she clambered into the branches of a tree beneath which they stood.

RANSOM IS MOTIVE IN KIDNAP-MURDER

Other Carolina Abductions Puzzle Police As Columbia Case is Solved.

By The Associated Press.

Officers announced Thursday that an unemployed mechanic had assumed responsibility for the kidnap-slaying of a 15-year-old Columbia, S. C., boy, and a Virginia admitted an extortion attempt in that state while two other cases reported as kidnappings were under investigation in North Carolina.

Robert Wilcox, 49, was quoted by officers in Columbia as admitting responsibility for the kidnaping and slaying of H. H. Harris Jr., 15, with a $10,000 ransom as the motive.

In Richmond, Va., William B. Taylor, 24, a chauffeur, pleaded guilty before a United States commissioner to a charge of attempting to extort $1,800 from Fred W. Scott Jr., a broker, under threat of kidnaping Scott's grandchildren if the money was not paid.

Charlotte, N. C., authorities investigated the disappearance of Bruce D. Whitehead, young insurance agent. He has been gone two weeks and although his case is listed as a kidnaping, officers said they had no evidence to indicate he was being held against his will. Whitehead, they said, is not wanted and no ransom demands have been reported.

Meanwhile, the investigation at Rye, N. C., into the reported kidnaping of Frank Rhinehart, 10, a child of Webster school principal, was reported as having brought forth no developments. Rhinehart said he was abducted by three men last Friday night, and threatened to be returned to two days before being released in northern Georgia.

Gasoline Prices Here To Be Cut January 1

In line with the action of other companies of the Standard Oil group, the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky, serving Georgia, will reduce the prices of all grades of gasoline half-cent a gallon on January 1 to conform with a similar cut in the federal gasoline tax. R. E. Hodgson, district manager, said Thursday.

The cut in prices will bring the Atlanta retail price back down to cents a gallon for the regular grade of gasoline, where it was up to several weeks ago when the price was raised half-cent a gallon. Other firms posting the reduction included the Colonial Beacon Oil Company, and the Standard Oil Companies of New Jersey, New York, Louisiana and Pennsylvania.

The boys gave the names of M. O. Campbell, 16, of 860 Boulevard, S. E.; J. E. Beavers, 17, and G. L. Burrell, 17, of Lakewood Heights, and H. M. Strickland, 16, of 606 Deland avenue. WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Charges that meat packing plants were operating in defiance of the president's recovery program. Speaker Rainey today said he favored strict government control of the industry. Rainey said the meat packers were not passing the processing tax on to the consumer, but that they were making the seller bear the levy.

I favor strict government control of meat packing plants much as the industry was controlled during the World War," Rainey said. "The meat packing plants are a monopoly. Through direct buying they control prices."

THEODORE ROOSEVELT HITS PWA PROGRAM

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28. (AP)—Theodore Roosevelt, former governor of the Philippines, attacked the public works program today as costly and wasteful, and said that direct cash aid for the unemployed would cost only half as much.

His remarks were contained in a speech prepared for delivery today before a luncheon meeting of the Manufacturers and Bankers Club of Philadelphia.

Let us meet the matter squarely on a basis of direct cash aid for the unemployed," he said. "It will cost only one-half as much to states and nation as we pay in the public works program. It will also give to the unemployable a sense of security which they lack now, when they can look forward only to spasmodic employment on specific public projects."

WANTED: FACTS ABOUT CROWS.

The American Game Association has made the statement that crows are on the increase everywhere, and are endangering the waterfowl breeding grounds. For this reason, say they, we must control the crow. Fortunately this organization has none of the snap judgment characteristic of such movements, but has asked that the facts of the case be studied and the work to be done be based on these facts.

One of the important things in this study program is to determine their winter concentration areas of the crow flocks. During the breeding season the crows are naturally scattered, but in the fall and winter, they congregate in large flocks, offering the control program workers a chance to make a real dent in their numbers if it seems advisable.

For this reason I am asking that readers of this column having any information as to the location of the winter concentration points of crows communicate with me by mail, care of The Atlanta Constitution. Without intending this as a pun, we must determine whether or not the crow is as black as he is painted. If there are beneficial habits of the crow that counterbalance his fondness for bird eggs, and in some cases, for nestlings, we want to know it, so that the so-called "black marauder" will be given the benefit of the doubt. If, however, after a careful checkup, it is found that the undesirable habits of the crow overbalance his good points, I am willing to join in the program for his control. We have the assurance that nothing will be done that is not based on facts.

Jaybirds, as members of the crow family, come in for their share of abuse, but I am far from satisfied that the jay is an undesirable citizen. Yes, I have seen jays kill other birds, and have seen them rob nests, but I have yet to interpret this action from the human viewpoint. You cannot get a jay's-eye view of the matter, so why pass judgment? Such is my stand on both crows and jays. Learn the facts, then act.

Granted that these species both eat eggs, are we justified in saying that this habit is the rule and not the exception? A program of wholesale extermination has never yet been undertaken that did not lead to grief in some way. Be careful of what you say, but say it. What do you know about crows?
